UNKNOWN MAN FROZEN TO DEATH FIGHTING BETWEEN FEDERAL TROOPS TEMPORARY INJUNCTION CASE

Was Found on the Lowell Road in Tyngsboro Today—Body is Awaiting Identification

Ald. Brown's Signature to Bills Unnecessary—Injunction Stands Pending S. C. Decision

An unknown man was found in a dying condition early this morning on the Lowell line of the Bay State Street Railway Co. in Tyngsboro, opposite George L. Cady's farm. He was quickly hurried to the residence of Dr. F. D. Lambert in the town, but despite medical attendance he died soon after his arrival at the doctor's office. The body was later viewed by Medical Examiner J. V. Meigs of this city, and the cause of death it is believed was freezing.

The body was found at about 6:30 o'clock by Murray Parrish of Tyngsboro, who was on his way to work. He saw the body of a man lying near the car tracks in the snow and quickly went to his assistance, thinking the man had met with an accident. After a thorough examination Mr. Parrish found that the man was almost frozen to death and quickly summoned help and the unfortunate man was removed to the home of Dr. Lambert, who did all in his power to revive him, but his efforts were of no avail, for the man breathed his last a short time later without regaining consciousness. The body was later removed to the funeral parlors of Undertaker George W. Healey in Branch street, where it awaits identification.

Deceased was apparently 25 years of age. His hair is curly and of a dark brown hue, while his eyes are hazel. He has a smooth face and has a gold crown on the left upper side of the mouth, while another is situated on the right side. His teeth are fine, and all indications point to the man not belonging to the working class, for his hands are soft and show no sign of manual labor. He weighs about 175 pounds and measures about five feet, nine inches. He wore a blue suit, blue checked shirt, derby hat which was sold by W. E. Adams & Son of Montpelier, Vt., and black shoes.

In his pockets were found a sum of money and a gold watch marked with a monogram "P. K." or "F. K." Deceased wore a white collar and a blue tie, and his laundry mark was "T. K. S."

At the time of going to press the body had not been identified.

Foreigners Flee From Furious Battle— Order to Draw $10,000 to Protect Americans

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 12.—The fighting was begun at 8 o'clock by a federal battery of artillery and a general attack on the rebel positions was expected to start this afternoon.

WHEREABOUTS OF PASSENGER TRAIN FROM MEXICO CITY NOT KNOWN

LAREDO, TEXAS, Feb. 12.—The whereabouts of the northbound passenger train from Mexico City which left Tuesday night still is unreported and there is apprehension for the safety of its passengers. An unsuccessful attack was made on the south-bound Mexican national lines passenger train which left here Tuesday.

LEUT. COL. SAYARRATE IN GENERAL CHARGE OF FEDERAL ARTILLERY

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 12.—General Huerto placed in general charge of the federal artillery. Lieut. Col. Rubio Sayarrate, who has the reputation of being the most capable artilleryist of the Mexican army, he gained fame in the campaign against Orozco when he was under General Huerta's command.

It was difficult to see how the rebels could long resist the fire poured on them by the federal artillery, but they again showed the same excellent marksmanship which characterized their previous fighting and this enabled them to offer a stern resistance.

THE GOVERNMENT FORCES ARE BEING VERY STRONGLY REINFORCED

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 12.—Heavy fighting was expected to occur early today between the rebels and the federal forces in the center of the city. At 8 o'clock movements of troops were observed both in the rebel and federal positions.

There was a scattering fire throughout the night and a sharp exchange of cannon shots shortly after one o'clock, but this lasted only a few moments.

The government forces were strongly reinforced in the night hours and the full bench hands down a decision based upon the law and the facts in the case.

On the point raised by Alderman Brown and put forward for the interpretation of the charter provisions as to whether his signature is required on every bill before it can be paid by the city, brief arguments were made and Judge Hall decided against the petitioner. The court held that the provisions of the charter did not authorize the commissioner of finance to hold up the city's business awaiting his signature to authorize payment of any bill legally due. Judge Hall said that no whim of any one commissioner could obstruct the conduct of the city's business.

At the superior court in East Cambridge this forenoon the hearing on the temporary injunction secured by Alderman Brown to restrain the city of Lowell from paying for the Knox fire auto came up for argument on facts. City Solicitor Hennessy, assisted by Frank E. Dunbar, Esq., appeared for the city and Albert S. Howard, Esq., for the petitioner.

The counsel on both sides submitted an agreed statement of facts which was received by Judge Hall to be submitted to the full bench for decision on points of law. There was no argument from either side relative to this part of the case. The temporary injunction will stand until such time as

LAWYERS IN ACRIMONIOUS DEBATE

NEW YORK, Feb. 12.—Government counsel and counsel for Edison J. Chamberlin, president of the Grand Trunk road, indulged in acrimonious debate today before Judge Meyer in the district court. The judge was ready to hear argument for and against the appointment of a commission asked for by Chamberlin to take the testimony in London of certain directors of the Grand Trunk with regard to the stopping of Grand Trunk extensions in New England. It was in connection with this that Chamberlin and President Mather were equally insistent that Judge Meyer should preside. After both sides had exchanged sharp words Judge Meyer interrupted Mr. Rand to say: "What's the matter. Are you afraid that if this argument is heard before me I will grant the motion for a commission?"

"I do not regard that as a proper remark for the court to make," said Rand.

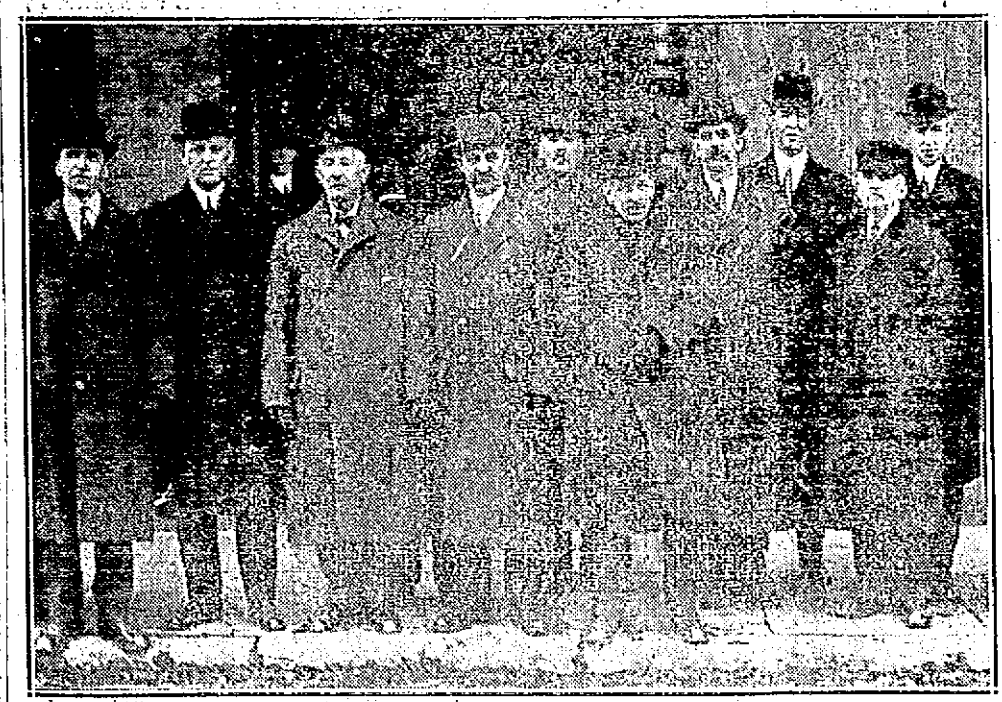

It was finally decided that Judge Meyer should hear the arguments at five o'clock this afternoon.

Permission was granted Chamberlin's counsel to embody in the application a request for the testimony of Algernon Mills of Glynn, Mills, Curry & Co., London bankers of Maurice Glynn of the same firm, and of Charles C. Conner, general manager of the City & Midland bank.

The original motion called only for the testimony of Alfred Smithers, chairman of the Grand Trunk board and London directors of the road. Their testimony, Chamberlin's lawyers contend, will show that stopping work in New England was due to a policy of retrenchment, not to a legal agreement with the New Haven.

The special grand jury will continue tomorrow its investigation of the New Haven road and its subsidiaries. The jury took a recess last week.

HEARING ON THE PROPOSED BOULEVARD— MANY SPEAKERS HEARD BY LEGISLATIVE COMMITTEE

A hearing on the bill accompanying the petition of Frank Ricard and others for legislation to provide for the construction of a state highway from Moody street bridge in the city of Lowell, to the town of Lawrence, was given last night by the legislative committee on roads and bridges. The hearing was held in the municipal council chamber and about 250 persons were in attendance. The senate chairman of the committee, Charles Cabot Johnson, presided, and the hearing was a very interesting one. There was no absolute objection to the proposition, though some of the speakers were opposed to the details. They thought the city was attempting to drive a pretty close bargain and doubted the wisdom of asking the state to build the entire link as proposed in the bill and petition. It was pointed out that the cost of a retaining wall to protect the western portion of the proposed road would add very materially to the cost of construction.

The committee on roads and bridges arrived in Lowell at 8 o'clock yesterday afternoon and went over the proposed route in automobiles. All the members were present except Sen. Morton Burdick of Adams. Before going over the route of the proposed road the visitors were taken up the boulevard as far as the water tower and after returning to the city they allowed that they had experienced anything but a joy ride. One of them remarked, jokingly, that he had never before received so cold a reception.

After returning from the trip they were taken to the York club and then things looked brighter. The committee, with the exception of the house chairman, Samuel L. Collins, remained in Lowell over night, stopping at the Richardson hotel.

The evening meeting opened at 7:30 o'clock.

The hearing was the first speaker. Mr. Ricard had a map which he stretched on the long table in front of the committee. He explained the proposition as a connecting link between the Pawtucketville boulevard and the state road to Lawrence. He traced the proposed route from the Textile school and told of the ownership of land en route. Most of the land is owned by the Locks and Canal and the Merrimack mills, and he said that the land damage would not be very great. He traced the route from the Textile school to the car barns, where the road connects with the state road to Lawrence.

Mr. Ricard read the names of various prominent citizens who approved of the proposition. He said he would be glad to answer any and all questions, and the chairman asked him as to land damage. Mr. Ricard set the land damage roughly at between $20,000 and $25,000.

Another member said: "In view of this being entirely a Lowell proposition, would you be willing to have Lowell pay the land damage and go before the legislature with a clean sheet?"

Mr. Ricard said he was not in a position to answer that question.

Mayor O'Donnell said that likely the proposition was to connect two boulevards. He said that the city of Lowell would naturally take kindly to a proposition that would give to the city a fine boulevard in so important a location as so reasonable a cost. "This proposed boulevard goes through the west part of the city, West Centralville," he called, "said the mayor, 'and I think it would be a great sanitary measure and would complete a beautiful boulevard. Very little of the land is occupied by buildings of any kind, and probably the greatest expense along the river front would be the building of a retaining wall. I would be anxious to see any plan that would be so soundly a proposition and as Mayor of Lowell I am heartily in favor of it. What would you say about the city of Lowell paying the land damage?'"

He asked one of the committee: "If the expense was not too great, I would favor having the city paying the land damage rather than kill the proposition." The mayor said he advocated this same proposition more than a year ago.

Rep. Victor Francis Jewett spoke in favor of the proposition and referred

GOVERNMENT FORCES DESTROYED CORNER OF ARSENAL OCCUPIED BY REBELS

LAREDO, TEX., Feb. 12.—A circular telegram transmitted to Monterey today by President Madero said that the government forces destroyed the corner of the arsenal occupied by rebel forces.

A passenger train from Mexico City on last night's train reported that at least 1000 Americans were taken to the capital even if the opportunity presented itself, as the banks were closed. A large number of Americans were at the station, he said, seeking to take northbound trains, but checks were refused as payment for tickets.

Many Americans, the passenger believed, were practically marooned at the station without food, shelter or money. He said railroad officials were doing everything they could to afford shelter to the women and children.

AMERICANS WARNED TO KEEP OUT OF THE DANGER ZONE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—Ambassador Wilson's overnight dispatches were laid before President Taft today, immediately on his return from Philadelphia. They contained principally an account of the most disquieting feature of the fighting in Mexico City—the killing of two American women yesterday. Administration officials look with much apprehension upon this incident and one of the first results was last night's order to Ambassador Wilson to warn all Americans out of the danger zone.

The president is keeping in constant touch with the situation from three points of view, from the diplomatic side, which involves the actions of Ambassador Wilson in making representations to President Madero and Gen. Diaz in the interest of the foreign life and property in Mexico, from the naval viewpoint as it concerns the extent of the activities of several thousand marines and bluejackets, who will appear in the Mexican ports within the course of the next 48 hours, and from the military standpoint, which involves determination of the question as to when if at all, he shall give the word for the entrainment of the first brigade of the first division of the reorganized army of regular troops which now is ready for an immediate departure for the south.

AMBASSADOR WILSON ORDERED TO DRAW $10,000 TO PROTECT AMERICANS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—To protect Americans endangered in the firing in Mexico City Ambassador Wilson was ordered today to draw on the state department for $10,000. This could be used for relief of the destitute or for getting Americans out of Mexico.

Anti-American feeling at Acapulco culminated in an assault upon two officers of the cruiser Denver before she departed yesterday for Acapulco, Honduras. The victims of the assault were Surgeon General and Ensign Hughes, who were preparing through street. Neither was injured.

Telegrams to the war department from the three posts in New York state where the remnants of the first army brigade are stationed, report that a body of about 2500 men in full equipment is ready for an order from the chief of staff.

It has been suggested to the president that it might be prudent to dispatch the first brigade to Vera Cruz at once even if the troops are to be kept aboard ship indefinitely as were the 1000 marines on the Panther which lay in San Domingo harbor for more than a month last summer, but because there is some fear that such a gathering of a foreign military force in their ports, even though not landed, might inflame the Mexican public to

Hall & Lyon Co. Clerks Went to Billerica

"Jingle, Jingle, Jingle, Oh you sliv'ry bells. If you chanced in the vicinity of the Liggett, Hall and Lyon store in Merrimack street last night about 9 o'clock you no doubt heard this joyous and tuneful melody crackling the biting chill of the air and devolving you of the thought that the thermometer was stationed about the zero mark. Many of those who heard the gleeful singing of the song thought for the time being that the throats of many urchins were sending forth the melody, such was not the case however, but the clerks of the above mentioned store grouped in front of the establishment prior to their departure on their annual sleighride.

Before entering the sleigh for the journey to the farmhouse of Emery T. Smith in Billerica an impromptu concert was given. Of course, the sympathy of the onlookers was with the clerks whose duty it is to attend to the wants of the public at night and many wondered why some of them wore such pleasant countenances. In explanation the apparent disinterestedness of the clerks within the store at the time of the departure of the sleigh it might be said that the Golden Rule, the one we all were taught in our school days, which runs: Do unto others, etc., is the one and only thought in the minds of the clerks in the employ of the Liggett, Hall & Lyon Co. stores. Both in their dealings with customers and with their fellow clerks, and this partly explains the pleasing facial expression of the clerks who had to forego the pleasure of going to the destination of the jollification in the sleigh. Behind the festivities would not go into until their arrival they performed the duties incumbent upon them with the same pleasantness and despatch as though there was nothing to engage their attention, after they had completed their work.

At 8 o'clock they boarded the car and went to the farmhouse and then the fun began.

John Broderick, pianist, played several of the popular melodies and the chorus of each was sung with a vim by the body and in many instances the verses were taken by the clerks more fortunate vocally than the others, who took courage and sang them with a determination that would make some of the popular stars of the light comic

DECISION OF IDAHO SUPREME COURT

Col. Roosevelt Returned to Subject in Address at New York Last Night

NEW YORK, Feb. 13.—Colonel Roosevelt, who last night returned to the subject of the decision of the supreme court of Idaho on the election cases, and again reviewed the opinion that this decision constituted an even graver offense against justice and decency, and an even greater blot on the American judiciary than the Dred Scott decision itself. The court, he characterized as "the most potent instrument in this land of justice."

"Abraham Lincoln was no less guilty than the three men whom the supreme court of the state of Idaho imprisoned for contempt because they criticized in less severe language than Lincoln a decision as indefensible than every standpoint of law and justice, and popular rights as the Dred Scott decision itself."

Progressives' Lincoln Day Banquet

Colonel Roosevelt spoke to the progressiveness at their Lincoln birthday banquet. The first political interference he has seen in months, his address was permeated with passages from Lincoln's writings and speeches. In Lincoln's words, he replied to the critics of the progressive party, blended republican leaders to the old, exclusive Lincoln king philosophy, which "supposed Lincoln before the Civil war," and declared that the time had come for the people to act as the court of last resort, he said in part:

"At this moment there has occurred in Idaho a decision by the highest state court which, within its own limits, is an even graver offense against justice and decency and an even greater blot on the American judiciary, than the Dred Scott decision itself. The reactionary party of the republic has played into the hands of the republican machine, of which it was itself a party, precisely as justice Tamm and the majority of the supreme court of the nation in 1857 played into the hands of President Pierce and Buchanan and the reaction-any manifestation of which he and the wife part.

Mineralogy of Justice

"The Idaho result was as grave a miscarriage of justice at the election as had already occurred at the non-voting convention, and the court became the most potent instrument in this land of justice. This decision I hold to have been an outrage upon the people of Idaho, and not merely upon those, but upon the people of all the United States for any interference with the right of an American in any state to cast his vote and to have it counted for the president of his choice, an offense against the Americans of all the state."

"That is the result of the vote showed that if we had been given our clear and unobscured rights Idaho's electoral vote would have been in the progressive column. The action of the reactionary party taken in combination with the action of the republican machine, resulted in the deprivation of the right of the people of Idaho to express their choice for president."

Conspiracy Against Liberty

"Abraham Lincoln said that he believed the Dred Scott decision represented a conspiracy against liberty between the third supreme court and the leading officers of the reactionary party to which that supreme court belonged. I believe that with even more justice Abraham Lincoln if alive today would make the same statement about the action of the reactionary court of Idaho in connection with the reactionary leaders of the republican machine of Idaho."

"But the court did not stop here. There was in Idaho a newspaper which fearlessly and in entirely proper manner condemned the court for this outrage. The editor and publisher of that paper, and another man connected with it, have been thrown into jail and held heavily for contempt by the court. The court in its opinion has cited the numerous democratic outrages and the Dred Scott decision, as justifying their action. $5,000 more extraordinary."

their action. $5,000 more extraordinary."

Many Improper Decisions

"This action would not, however, meet all the difficulties of the case. In this state, for instance, there have been many well-meaning judges who, in certain cases, usually affecting labor, have rendered decisions which were wholly improper, wholly reactionary, and fraught with the gravest injury to those classes of the community standing most in need of justice. What is needed here is not the right to recall the judge, who in some one instance gives a mistaken and reactionary interpretation to his constitution, but the right of the people themselves to express after due deliberation their definite judgment as to what the constitution shall permit in the way of legislation for social and industrial justice."

"I hold that in such a case as the bankruptcy case, in such a case as the workmen's compensation act, in such a case as the tenement house cigar factory act, in such a case as the act providing for the safeguarding of a dangerous machinery, in such a case as the eight-hour law, that it is for the people themselves to decide whether such a law is or is not to stand on the statute books. I do not care whether you call this action of theirs constraining the constitution, or making the constitution, I care for the fact and not for the name."

Substituting the word "progressive" for "republican" in a letter written by Lincoln, the substitution being, Colonel Roosevelt said, only that the name of the progressive party of today for the progressive party of Lincoln's time—Colonel Roosevelt read the letter, as follows:

"In the matter of fusion, I am for it if it can be had on (progressive) grounds, and I am not for it on any other terms. A fusion on any other terms would be as foolish as unprincipled. It would lose the whole (of what we have), while the common enemy would still carry (all the vote that is hostile to us). The question of men is a different one. There are good patriotic men and statesmen (in this territory opposed to us) whom I would cheerfully support if they would now place themselves on (progressive) grounds, but I am against letting down the (progressive) standard a hair's-breadth."

"What Lincoln then said as to platform principles, men and methods, applied exactly all attention to fusion, amalgamating the progressives with any other party in our own days."

"What Lincoln then said as to platform principles, men and methods, applied exactly all attention to fusion, amalgamating the progressives with any other party in our own days."

CAMEL DIED OF COLD

Drops Lifeless on Way to Theatre in Boston

BOSTON, Feb. 13.—Kiel Ayden, the venerable camel of the troupe now appearing with the "Garden of Allah" company at a local theatre, died of the cold on Tuesday street, just as he was about to enter the theatre for the afternoon performance.

The blistering sun and the burning sands of Sahara are very different from chilly east winds and an underfoot as hard as flint and the change was too much for Kiel Ayden.

While passing the Hotel Touraine, shortly after 4 o'clock, the animal emitted a mournful wail, then sank slowly to his knees and reeled over-dead.

Last night officials of the Harvard natural history department telephoned for the body of the camel.

The body will be delivered to them today. The skin will be stuffed and placed in the exhibition room.

LECTURE ON JAPAN

Interesting Address by Miss Julia Stevens at People's Club Last Night

Series of Lectures to be Given

A series of lectures, one to be given each Wednesday evening, made possible through a fund given for this purpose by Col. James Francis, was started last night at the People's club rooms in Russell hall. The lecturer being Miss Julia Stevens. The subject was "Japan," and the lecture was built up around a charming series of pictures, which Miss Stevens collected on her trip to the Asian country. The pictures covered practically the whole of Japanese life, customs, religion, history and every possible phase of life, and the lecture proved very interesting.

HOW THIN PEOPLE MAY PUT ON FLESH

Great Discovery by Eminent Specialist

Judging from the countless preparations and treatments which are offered for the purpose of making thin people fleshy, developing the arms, neck and bust and replacing sagging hollows and angles by the soft, curved lines of health and beauty, there are evidently thousands of men and women who feel they are "too thin," and therefore give up real pleasure in life here with a simple prescription which, by correcting faulty metabolism and stimulating the activity of certain vital organs, quickly produces a marvelous transformation in the appearance; the increase in weight frequently averaging from 10 to 20 pounds the first week, and very rarely less than 2. This increase in weight also carries with it a general improvement in the health. Catarrh, dyspepsia and nervousness, which nearly always accompany excessive thinness, all gradually disappear; dull eyes become bright and pale cheeks glow with a bloom of perfect health.

The prescription, which contains no dangerous drugs and is absolutely harmless, calls for 2 oz. Tincture of Carduus Compound, 2 oz. Fluid of Salutarin, 2 oz. Fluid of Callaza and enough water to fill an 8-oz. bottle, and can readily be prepared by any druggist. One or two tablespoonfuls should be taken about 20 minutes before each meal.

But all you want but chew your food thoroughly.

CAUTION!

Although the above prescription is unexcelled for its effectiveness, it should not, owing to its remarkable flesh growing properties, be used by anyone who does not desire to put on flesh.

$1000 FOR FALSE ARREST

Negro Sued Former Theatre Managers

BOSTON, Feb. 13.—Alexander B. Armstrong, colored, was yesterday awarded the sum of $1000 by a jury in the sixth jury session for false arrest and malicious prosecution in his suit against Messrs. Stahl, Miller and Magee, former lessees of the Grand Opera house, on Washington street. He sued for that amount.

Armstrong claimed that he went to the theatre and purchased a 50-cent seat in the balcony. When he entered he gave the seat check to the usher, who failed to seat him. After the show had opened he dropped into a seat, poorer than the one called for by his ticket. He was later asked to get up and as he had no check for the seat. He demurred and asked for the chief usher or manager. The first thing he knew, he said, was when he saw a special officer come up and put a pair of twisters on him. He was then taken from the theatre and arraigned in court the next morning charged with disturbing an assembly. On this charge he was found not guilty.

In the seventh session a jury considering the evidence in the suit brought by William W. Bryant, colored, against Rich's grill corporation for alleged discrimination on account of color.

He claims that with a friend he was refused a glass of beer.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

Lowell Opera House

"A Woman's Way," the brilliant comedy by Thompson Buchanan that is being presented at the Opera House this week by the Longacre Players continues to please and amuse audiences at each performance and Mr. Longacre and his clever company of players are daily adding new friends and admirers by the excellent performances being given of this play. "A Woman's Way" will be presented every afternoon and evening this week and for the second week of this company's appearance here. "The Man From Home" will be the bill.

As everybody knows, Daniel Voorhees Pike, attorney, came from Kokomo, The annual Hoosier whose portrait by William Heide, the actor, has helped to make "The Man From Home" the holder of as fine a collection of success-records in the shape of long big-city runs, and enormous small-city receipts, as any play has ever had chalked up to its credit, carried the queer name of that Indiana village on his case. To show how advertising pays, Kokomo, in doing its utmost to give the name of the character has practically doubled its population since the play was first produced. In the hands of the Longacre Players "The Man From Home" should be a potent attraction. Seats for all performances are now on sale.

Kelth's Theatre

Rush Ling Toy, deliver into Chinese language and maker of mysterious happenings, has everybody guessing this week at Kelth's theatre. The sedan chair and cabinet tricks, the levitation mystery and a half dozen other strange things are maneuvered by the magician in quick order. Probably no other worker in this medium has done so many things in so brief a space of time. George Richards, in the comedy, "Easy Money" and Bert Fitzgibbons, the funniest of them all, are others who are sure to win much applause. La Deedema, the posing Venus; Kimball & Donovan, banjoists; Belser & Gores, comedians, Alleen & Louie, funsters, and Jean Ward, singer are the other good acts on this thoroughly likeable bill. Good seats may be obtained for all performances during the remainder of the week. Phone 28.

Merrimack Square Theatre

The entertainment provided at the Merrimack Square theatre this week should have been called Gypsy Week for with the Longacre Players presenting "Nita, the Gypsy," a gypsy atmosphere is created that seems to catch hold of the large audiences in attendance there. Of course there are some acts of merit on the bill this week but despite this fact there is an indescribable something which prevails about the theatre this week that suggests the spring time, with its birds and flowers and romantic songs and girls singing love songs. The many bright novelties, the quaint songs and the Gypsy-Apache dance all go to make one of the most refreshing entertainments seen on a local stage this winter. Even the photo plays are a little above the average, there being a complete change today.

The Playhouse

No piece has given such genuine satisfaction to the patrons of the Playhouse than this week's presentation of Alexander Dumas' great French play, "Camille." The fact that many of those who witnessed performances earlier in the week intend, seeing it again, testifies not only to the real merit of the piece itself but also to the excellent work of those engaged in the cast. Miss Jackson is especially good as "Camille," while Mr. Smythe handles the character of the young lover in a manner that brings him merited recognition. The staging of the play is most artistic. Next week, "Mrs. Warren's Profession."

The Kusine

There is a man who came to the Casino a few months ago, weighing 217 pounds. Today he weighs 205 and he says he never felt better in his life. Skating will take off superfluous weight in a normal, healthful way. Don't come to the Casino if you are training for admission to the Fat Man's Club.

MERE BABIES AT WORK

1259 Toil in Canning Sheds—Oldest 14

ALBANY, N. Y., Feb. 13.—How children of tender years slave for hours in canning sheds with their blistered fingers wrapped in rags; how they labor in tenements making toys, flowers and plumes, and how women toil excessively, sometimes for mere pittance, in industrial establishments in this state, is graphically described in the report of the New York state factory investigating commission which was submitted to the legislature yesterday.

Not Enforced

The report says that the canners operating in the rural districts have never obeyed the state child labor law because they never have to. They have contended that their "sheds" in which the children strip beans and husk corn are not "factories," and that under certain conditions the employment of children less than 14 years of age in these "sheds" is legal.

The "employment of mere babies," the commission holds, has been the rule, and it adds that of 1259 children found at work in 23 sheds the oldest was 14 years old and the youngest was three.

Many of the canners, the report explains, are opposed to the employment of children and half of them do not report to it, but "as the canning industry is largely devoted to the exploitation of foreigners, the parents

AMUSEMENT NOTES

Lowell Opera House

"A Woman's Way," the brilliant comedy by Thompson Buchanan that is being presented at the Opera House this week by the Longacre Players continues to please and amuse audiences at each performance and Mr. Longacre and his clever company of players are daily adding new friends and admirers by the excellent performances being given of this play. "A Woman's Way" will be presented every afternoon and evening this week and for the second week of this company's appearance here. "The Man From Home" will be the bill.

As everybody knows, Daniel Voorhees Pike, attorney, came from Kokomo, The annual Hoosier whose portrait by William Heide, the actor, has helped to make "The Man From Home" the holder of as fine a collection of success-records in the shape of long big-city runs, and enormous small-city receipts, as any play has ever had chalked up to its credit, carried the queer name of that Indiana village on his case. To show how advertising pays, Kokomo, in doing its utmost to give the name of the character has practically doubled its population since the play was first produced. In the hands of the Longacre Players "The Man From Home" should be a potent attraction. Seats for all performances are now on sale.

Kelth's Theatre

Rush Ling Toy, deliver into Chinese language and maker of mysterious happenings, has everybody guessing this week at Kelth's theatre. The sedan chair and cabinet tricks, the levitation mystery and a half dozen other strange things are maneuvered by the magician in quick order. Probably no other worker in this medium has done so many things in so brief a space of time. George Richards, in the comedy, "Easy Money" and Bert Fitzgibbons, the funniest of them all, are others who are sure to win much applause. La Deedema, the posing Venus; Kimball & Donovan, banjoists; Belser & Gores, comedians, Alleen & Louie, funsters, and Jean Ward, singer are the other good acts on this thoroughly likeable bill. Good seats may be obtained for all performances during the remainder of the week. Phone 28.

Merrimack Square Theatre

The entertainment provided at the Merrimack Square theatre this week should have been called Gypsy Week for with the Longacre Players presenting "Nita, the Gypsy," a gypsy atmosphere is created that seems to catch hold of the large audiences in attendance there. Of course there are some acts of merit on the bill this week but despite this fact there is an indescribable something which prevails about the theatre this week that suggests the spring time, with its birds and flowers and romantic songs and girls singing love songs. The many bright novelties, the quaint songs and the Gypsy-Apache dance all go to make one of the most refreshing entertainments seen on a local stage this winter. Even the photo plays are a little above the average, there being a complete change today.

The Playhouse

No piece has given such genuine satisfaction to the patrons of the Playhouse than this week's presentation of Alexander Dumas' great French play, "Camille." The fact that many of those who witnessed performances earlier in the week intend, seeing it again, testifies not only to the real merit of the piece itself but also to the excellent work of those engaged in the cast. Miss Jackson is especially good as "Camille," while Mr. Smythe handles the character of the young lover in a manner that brings him merited recognition. The staging of the play is most artistic. Next week, "Mrs. Warren's Profession."

The Kusine

There is a man who came to the Casino a few months ago, weighing 217 pounds. Today he weighs 205 and he says he never felt better in his life. Skating will take off superfluous weight in a normal, healthful way. Don't come to the Casino if you are training for admission to the Fat Man's Club.

MERE BABIES AT WORK

1259 Toil in Canning Sheds—Oldest 14

ALBANY, N. Y., Feb. 13.—How children of tender years slave for hours in canning sheds with their blistered fingers wrapped in rags; how they labor in tenements making toys, flowers and plumes, and how women toil excessively, sometimes for mere pittance, in industrial establishments in this state, is graphically described in the report of the New York state factory investigating commission which was submitted to the legislature yesterday.

Not Enforced

The report says that the canners operating in the rural districts have never obeyed the state child labor law because they never have to. They have contended that their "sheds" in which the children strip beans and husk corn are not "factories," and that under certain conditions the employment of children less than 14 years of age in these "sheds" is legal.

The "employment of mere babies," the commission holds, has been the rule, and it adds that of 1259 children found at work in 23 sheds the oldest was 14 years old and the youngest was three.

Many of the canners, the report explains, are opposed to the employment of children and half of them do not report to it, but "as the canning industry is largely devoted to the exploitation of foreigners, the parents

TALE OF ROUGH VOYAGE

Meridian Leaking and Short of Coal

NEWPORT NEWS, Va., Feb. 13.—Leaking, short of coal and with her after engine carried away and the steering gear badly damaged, the British steamer Meridian, which is en route from Shields to Nipe Bay, Cuba, put into port here yesterday in distress, bringing a tale of one of the roughest voyages ever experienced by her officers.

The ship was 30 days making the trip usually made in from 12 to 15 days, and she had barely enough coal in her bunkers to reach port.

Captain Stevenson reports encountering high winds and mountainous seas for days. A big sea broke over the stern, crushing in the wheelhouse and smashing the steering wheel.

The leaking condition of the ship is thought to have been due to striking some submerged object. The ship will be docked at the local ship yard for a survey.

NAME CABINET MARCH 4

Nothing Public Until Then Says Wilson

PRINCETON, N. J., Feb. 13.—President-elect Wilson announced definitely last night that he would not make public the names of his cabinet until he sent them to the senate for confirmation on March 4.

"I will follow the good old-fashioned method," he said, "and not make any announcement until the names of the cabinet members are sent to the senate."

Mr. Wilson's remarks were occasioned by the publication of reports from Washington that he would announce his cabinet today. He said there was absolutely no truth or authority for the reports.

Mr. Wilson, it is indicated, will ask the men to whom portfolios are offered to regard the information as confidential. He believes also it is said, that he ought not to make any important announcements until he is actually president of the United States. A premature announcement from outside sources, however, it was admitted, may upset the governor's plans.

The governor received in silence the information that he had been officially elected president of the United States through balloting in the house of representatives yesterday. He said he had been working hard in his study all day examining papers and documents which had been accumulating ever since his nomination. He heard further press reports of the Mexican situation, but offered no comment.

New Battleship

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—The super-dreadnought Texas, the next battleship to be turned over to the navy by the bureau, is expected to be finished in June, according to a naval report today. The battleship New York is nearly two-thirds complete and the dreadnaughts Nevada and Oklahoma, about one-fourth.

"BIG TIM" GIVES SHOES

Relatives Carry Out His Birthday Custom

NEW YORK, Feb. 13.—Nearly 4000 pairs of shiny shoes trod the Bowers sidewalks last night and by their newness emphasized the rugged clothes of the men that wore them. They were "Big Tim" Sullivan's annual birthday gifts to the Bowers outcasts.

Although Sullivan, once a Tammany leader, state senator and congressman, and still a congressman-elect, is a patient in a sanitarium at Yonkers, his relatives obeyed his wishes in continuing the custom he instituted many years ago. It was the first time "Big Tim" had not been present to superintend the distribution.

Several thousand shivering men, many with rags wrapped about their feet, were in line. Most of their wear was particular about the size, as long as the shoes were "bigger than nine."

but efforts were made to give each a "fair fit." The only expression of dissatisfaction came from one man in the line that wore a straw hat. Instead of shoes he wanted a derby.

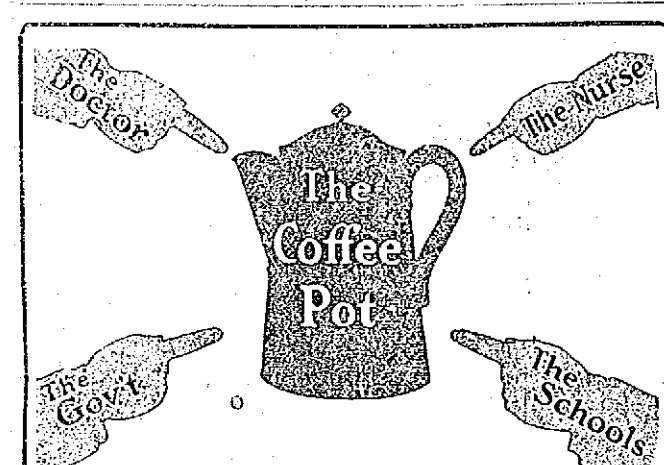

MOTHER SO POORLY

Could Hardly Care for Children—Finds Health in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

ROVINA CENTER, N. Y.—"For six years I have not had as good health as I have now. I was very young when my first baby was born and my health was very bad after that. I was not regular and I had pains in my back and was so poorly that I could hardly take care of my two children. I doctored with several doctors but got no better. They told me there was no help without an operation. I have used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it has helped me wonderfully. I do most of my own work now and take care of my children. I recommend your remedies to all suffering women."

LYDIA E. PINKHAM, Care of ELMSWORTH TITTLE, Rovina Center, N. Y.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, contains no narcotics or harmful drugs, and today holds the record of being the most successful remedy we know for women's ills. If you need such a medicine why don't you try it?

Accusing Fingers Point to Coffee

Last year the Government Health Office, by authority of the District of Columbia, issued an appeal to parents, asking them not to allow their children to drink coffee or tea.

They noticed that the children who drank coffee were nervous and didn't get along in their studies, and were not healthy looking—

And those who did not drink coffee or tea, were, as a rule, strong and vigorous and got along well in their studies.

It isn't so much what Doctors, Government, Nurses or the School Teachers of the country are saying about coffee, as

VAGABOND BILL NOW STATE LAW

Pickpockets May be Locked Up if Acting Suspiciously—Gov. Foss Signed Many Bills

BOSTON, Feb. 13.—Governor Foss signed today the most important social bills in the legislature. One of them was the new vagabond bill which will enable a police officer to grab a pickpocket or a thief even if the person is only acting suspiciously in a public place. It is no longer necessary to prove that the person has no visible means of livelihood.

To Detain Lepers
Another measure is the leprosy bill which gives the state board of charity the right to detain as long as it may seem necessary a person suspected of having leprosy.

A third measure straightens out the tangle in the town of Mattapoisett caused by the forgetfulness of the town constable as to whether he had properly posted a certain notice of a town meeting at which a vote was taken to establish a new water system. The acts of the town are now validated.

Prayer Initiative
The initiative and referendum was favored yesterday by Professor Lewis R. Johnson of Harvard, George Fred

JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER, JR., AND ASSOCIATES INVESTIGATE SOCIAL EVIL

1511 the bureau of social hygiene was formed. Its present members are Miss Katherine Bennett Davis, superintendent of the New York state reformatory for women at Bedford Hills, N. Y.; Paul M. Warburg of the firm of Kuhn, Loeb & Co.; Starr J. Murphy of the New York bar and John D. Rockefeller, Jr. As the bureau develops new members may be added.

"One of the first things undertaken by the bureau was the establishment at Bedford Hills, adjacent to the reformatory, of a laboratory of social hygiene, under Miss Davis' direction. In this laboratory it is proposed to study from the physical, mental, social and moral side each person committed to the reformatory. This study will be carried on by experts, and each case will be kept under observation for from three weeks to three months, as may be required. When the diagnosis is completed it is hoped that the laboratory will be in a position to recommend the treatment most likely to reform the individual, or, if reformation is impossible, to recommend permanent custodial care.

"Furthermore, reaching out beyond the individuals involved, it is believed that thus important contributions may be made to a fairer knowledge of the conditions ultimately responsible for vice. If this experiment is successful the principle may prove applicable to all classes of criminals and lead to lines of action not only more scientific and humane, but less wasteful than those at present followed."

Miss Davis' position has already been earned. She is considered an able, earnest woman. John D. Rockefeller, Jr., the prime mover of the bureau, is the only son of the Standard Oil millionaire. He was foreman of the special grand jury appointed two years ago to investigate the "white slave" traffic in New York city. Starr J. Murphy is a prominent lawyer of New York, counsel to John D. Rockefeller, and also the adviser and assistant of the latter in his philanthropic work. Dr. Abraham Flexner is a prominent physician and investigator, whose reports on the medical schools in this country and in Europe are well known. The bureau sent him abroad to make a searching and exhaustive inquiry into the subject of the social evil before issuing its recent statement to the public. He is brother of Dr. Simon Flexner, director of the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research.

Williams, Henry Sterling and others.

Mr. Williams said that corruption in the legislature is now stronger, although more subtle, than ever.

Welfare of Aliens
The proposed investigation of the status of immigrants and aliens in Massachusetts was favored by a big delegation which came before the committee on social welfare yesterday.

Miss Frances Keller, secretary of the special commission which made similar investigations in New York, said that Boston conditions were not far different from New York conditions.

She said that the immigrant who comes into contact with the padrone system lives in a barn and gets his water from a frog pond will not have much respect for American institutions. She said there were several immigrant hotels in Boston which had been notorious offenders against the law.

Bernard J. Russell of the chamber of commerce said that uprisings such as had recently taken place in Massachusetts might have been prevented had the underlying causes been understood.

Professor Emily G. Balch of Wellesley said that the Lawrence conditions were typical of every big industrial centre.

Women Urge Bill
One of the biggest delegations of women that ever came to the state house appeared before the committee on federal relations yesterday to urge the passage of the resolutions that Massachusetts join in the calling for a United States constitutional convention to prohibit polygamy and polygamous relationship.

In favor of the bill were Mrs. Katherine L. Stevenson, representing the W. C. T. U.; Mrs. George W. Coleman, president of the Massachusetts Council for Patriotic Service; the Rev. Lucius H. Engle of Woburn; Mrs. Ethel B. Clark of the industrial department of the Federation of Women's Clubs.

Labor Bills Opposed
Opposition to various labor measures was heard by the committee on judiciary yesterday. Chairman Carroll of the Industrial Accident Board stated that under the compensation act injured employees are now receiving five times more than they ever got before. From 50 to 75 per cent of the claims adjusted would have got nothing under the old law.

Arthur Clark of Boston, representing the employers' association, was opposed to the picketing and injunction bill before the committee on labor. Nathan Matthews, B. P. Clark of the metal workers and F. S. Clark of the metal trades opposed changes in the workmen's compensation act.

Western Trolley Bill
Joseph B. Eastman of the Public Franchise league opposed the western trolley bill before the committee on street railways yesterday afternoon. This is the bill vetoed last year by Governor Foss.

Mr. Eastman wanted the Springfield lines taken away from the New Haven. He could see no reason why the state should not give $5,000,000 for the development of these lines as well as give $2,000,000 to the port of Boston.

Restrictions on Columbus Day
A report against the petitions of Benjamin B. Alling upon religious matters was made yesterday by the committee on legal affairs. The bills provide that Oct. 10 shall be a legal holiday, known as Yorktown day, that religious organizations shall not parade in the streets for sectarian purposes, that there shall be no organizations designed to promote the interests of particular races, religions or sects.

New Drunk Bill
A new drunk bill reported yesterday by legal affairs gives a judge the right to fine or imprison a third time convict for drunkenness. Under the present law the court has no discretion except to jail or acquit.

ALL THE WORLD and his WIFE

Readers of The Sun may not realize how much difficulty has been overcome by photographers in snapshooting public men and their wives that such pictures as the above may be enjoyed by the people of Lowell in the pages of The Sun. Some are utterly opposed to being snapped and some who are willing are prevented by their wives.

When an American goes to a convention or a public meeting or a gathering of any sort, "most lugherally," as the southern dandies say, he takes his wife with him. When a European does the same thing most often the wife stays at home. (There are exceptions, of course, but such is the general rule.) That makes the difference between American and European photographs of public men.

In American pictures you don't have to follow the French advice to "lead the woman." She is right there, in full view of the beholder. When you scan European pictures there are no women present. They're either far in the background or they aren't there at all. That was one of the things that most interested foreign and domestic visitors to last year's political conventions in Chicago and Baltimore. If you were a newspaper interviewer or a photographer, with a commission to find Brown, Jones or Robinson, delegate to the convention, you were just as likely as not to find him on the street accompanied by Mrs. Brown, Mrs. Jones or Mrs. Robinson.

The Wife Snapped Too

When the camera man tried to "snap" the picture of the aforesaid Brown, Jones or Robinson the wife "got into the picture." And sometimes, when the political warfare had ebbed and you tried to get a prominent man to express his views on the situation, he was out shopping with the missus. It wasn't convenient, but it was very American.

Again, sometimes the presence of the wife was very inconvenient. She would get a notion in her head that the senator or representative was not looking his best, and she would veto any suggestion that he pose.

"Oh, dear me," she would say, "What, let him pose in that crumpled suit after he has spent so many hours arguing with the horrid men on the other side. Never!"

And that settled it, for with characteristic American husbandly nervousness, the political boss would bow to the will of one who was greater than he. Rider Haggard's "She Who Must Be Obeyed" wouldn't be in it for a moment with the woman who rule America's bosses with the proverbial iron hand in the kid glove.

Won't Let Him Pose

Not only in politics does this deplorable state of affairs exist. Some of our best known financiers tell the newspaper photographer privately that they have personally no objection to getting in front of the lens, but their wives object to having their pictures published. "My wife says she knows I'm handsome enough to be photographed," said one man of millions the other day in an expansive moment, "but she is sure the camera won't do justice to me. So she won't let me pose." "I'm sorry, but I must refuse," the photographer would reply.

However, luckily for newspaper illustration they are not all like that. Some of them seem to enjoy being photographed with their husbands. For example, see the picture of former Senator Chauncey M. Depew in the cut. With him is his young and handsome wife, who—there's no secret about it—is considerably younger than her sprightly husband. Both Mr. and Mrs. Depew were very gracious when they had this picture taken, posing very patiently for the camera man until he had what he thought was just the proper pose.

There isn't much doubt that Colonel Roosevelt and Kaiser Wilhelm enjoy the distinction of being the most photographed men on earth. They have been pictured so much that the public is familiar with every feature and line of their faces. Some of the brother monarchs of the Kaiser, notably King

George of Great Britain, run close to the German emperor in the matter of number of photographs, but it is whispered in European circles that no other sovereign enjoys being photographed so much as the ruler of Germany. He is especially fond of the photographs which show him with his growing family of grandchildren, and every postcard shop in Germany has the pictures displayed for sale.

"General View" Before the Lens

There is a time-worn joke among newspaper photographers that only one man is photographed more often than Kaiser Wilhelm and Colonel Roosevelt. That man is General View. See the joke?

Wives of public men are not as a rule photographed nearly as much as their husbands. This may be due to their natural feminine inclination to appear before the public only when looking one's best. For example, while pictures of J. Pierpont Morgan have become quite common in recent years, despite his objection to posing, pictures of Mrs. Morgan are rare. They are procured when some very enterprising newspaper photographer braves the displeasures of the financial king, which is backed up by the walking stick he carried almost constantly, and "snaps" Mrs. Morgan.

Pictures of Helen Gould (now Mrs. Finley J. Shepard) have also been hard to get until recently. The best one that was known until about two years ago was taken by a photographer who happened to be on the scene with a camera just as she was leaving her Fifth avenue home. In recent years, however, Mrs. Shepard has consented to pose sometimes.

Some prominent men refuse positively to pose with their wives when it is known that the picture is desired for publication, and they take every possible precaution to prevent snapshooting.

The ladies wear thick veils when leaving their homes and doff them only when assured that the dangerous camera man is not within range. At public receptions and affairs of the sort, when it is impossible to appear with the veils, they take care to surround themselves with guards of friends who make the practicable approach of the photographer impossible. But luckily for the camera man, such cases are becoming rare with the spread of the use of newspaper and magazine half-tones.

HEADACHY, CONSTIPATED, BILIOUS, TAKE DELICIOUS "SYRUP OF FIGS."

REMOVES THE SCUM FROM THE TONGUE. SWEETENS A SOUR, GASSY, BILIOUS STOMACH; CLEANSSES YOUR LIVER AND
30 FEET OF BOWELS WITHOUT GRIPE OR NAUSEA

If headachy, bilious, dizzy, tongue coated, stomach sour and full of gas, you belch undigested food and feel sick and miserable, it means that your liver is choked with sour bile and your thirty feet of bowels are clogged with effete waste matter not properly carried off. Constipation is worse than most folks believe. It means that this waste matter in the thirty feet of bowels decays into poisons, gases and acids and that these poisons are then sucked into the blood through the very ducts which should suck only nourishment to sustain the body.

Most people dread physic. They think of castor oil, salts and cathartic pills. They shrink from the after effects—so they postpone the dose until they get sick; then they do a heroic liver and bowel cleansing in a heroic way—they have a bowel wash-day.

That is all wrong. If you will take a teaspoonful of delicious Syrup of Figs, tonight, you will never realize you have taken anything until morning. Syrup of Figs is a pleasant, non-toxic, non-drying, non-clogging-up waste will be moved on and out of your system, thoroughly and gently—no griping, no nausea, no weakness. Taking Syrup of Figs is a real pleasure. Don't think you are dragging yourself. It is compared directly of laxative, but gentle and non-injurious, and constant use can not injure.

Ask your druggist for Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna, and look for the name, California Fig Syrup Company, on the label. This is the genuine, reliable. Any other Fig Syrup is a likely of laxative, but gentle and non-injurious, and constant use can not injure.

Motion Overruled

Judge Dubuque of the superior court overruled the motion for a new trial in the case of one of the suits brought against Connors Bros. company by John J. Gray. The action in this suit was one of contract with an additional claim of $50,000 which the plaintiff held to be due him from the defendants for services rendered etc. in 1907 and 1908. In the trial which took place in Boston last June, the jury found a verdict for the de-

EDUCATION

Frederick H. Hamilton, D. D., former president of Tufts college, in his lecture in the Unitarian church on "Some Fundamental Conceptions of Education," gave in a condensed form a splendid exposition of the aims of true education in the modern sense.

One of the most vital facts of his discourse—and one frequently overlooked by both teachers and parents—was that "the acquisition of facts is not education." This would have sounded like rank heresy to the educators of the past who looked upon the schools as a storehouse of facts from which the child was to draw until his mind was stocked. Even today this viewpoint has not altogether changed. We have seen cases where people, testing the education of a boy or girl, have asked question after question of an encyclopedic character in which there was no relation one to the other and no test of the reasoning powers. We are all familiar with the type of man who can tell the height of the highest mountain, the date of the important battle of the world, the distance of the earth from the sun, the weight and density of the atmosphere, and such illuminating facts. The ability to store up abstract facts does not necessarily mark a man out as educated. Simple people may gaze in open-mouthed wonder "that one small head can carry all he knew," but he is frequently regarded as a bore by people who are educated in the true sense of the word. A mere parrot-like mouthing of facts or figures has no connection with true education. We have seen cases where children when learning fractions or interest, could do difficult problems when the school formulas were used, but could not understand what was required when the problem was put in a slightly different form, because they had acquired routine methods without understanding them in the least.

True education, according to Dr. Hamilton, consists mainly in the teaching of the young to observe, to compare, and to give expression to thought. In other words it is simply a means of preparing him to educate himself in the years that follow his school life. The best educated young man is not the one who has the greatest store of facts leaving school, but he who is best fitted to learn most from the opportunities and experiences of life, he who can use the powers that are latent in the young awaiting development, the power to observe, to compare, to give his thought proper expression, whether by brush, pen, compass, or lance. The teaching of many things in the schools may not seem to fit directly under any of these heads, but there are side issues such as culture, moral training, and intellectual power, each of which is of the utmost importance and which fit into the scheme of education in relation to these three primary objects.

THE INDIVIDUAL VS. SOCIETY

In "Locksley Hall," one of Tennyson's strongest poems, he sums up the views of a theorist who dwells on the achievements and promises of human endeavor only to find disillusion. Through verse after verse he reasons out a line of selfish philosophy, and gives the result as follows:

"Knowledge comes but wisdom lingers, and I linger on the shore; And the individual lessens and the world grows more and more."

In dwelling on the evils of divorce we frequently overlook this great truth, that society as a whole is of more importance than the wellbeing of the individual. People who argue in favor of divorce quote examples where it would seem to be justified. The records of divorce courts also furnish cases where such action seems to be almost absolutely necessary, but in these cases we are dwelling on the individual. It is when we take our eyes from these examples and look upon society as it is constituted, when we dwell on the sanctity of home ties and the necessity of the warp and woof of family life in the fabric of society, we realize that the interests of humanity as a whole outweigh those of the individual.

Divorce is rapidly becoming the greatest menace to the happiness and stability of society in this country. Day after day the wheels of the divorce mills revolve and grind out their grisly of hideous mental wrecks. Before these tribunals all the wreckage of home ties and family life is laid bare with a sickening vividness. How often do we see the most sacred and binding obligations regarded lightly, and marriages contracted and dissolved at the whim and caprice of the contracting parties. These things make of our laws a laughing stock and expose us to shame before the nations where common decency is not so much violated. There are cases where to avoid divorce means suffering for the individual. But is not this true of every phase of existence? There is no law that in its fulfillment does not impose unwelcome obligations on some individual or some class. Laws are made for the protection of society as a whole, and the protection of the individual in relation to that society. There should be no law for the individual that would be detrimental to mankind in general. When such a law exists it is against the principles of the very basis on which human society rests.

From all over America a voice of warning is issued regarding our divorce laws. They are rapidly undermining our national life. A greater issue is at stake than the settlement of an occasional grievance, and the common sense of an awakened public must face the situation calmly, and set about the discovery of a remedy for the wrongs caused by unwise legislation.

SCOTT'S LAST APPEAL

When we view the great events that are stirring around us, and read the names of men connected with gallant achievements and stupendous enterprises, we usually regard them in their relation to these achievements merely. They become abstract things, unrelated to all the ties of home and kindred, that throw a certain tenderness round the names of the most rugged.

The last appeal of Captain Scott, the daring explorer of the South pole, does more to touch our sensibilities and wake our better feelings than all the glory of his unrequited triumph. Facing death in the blizzard-swept wastes of the ice fields, surrounded by the dead bodies of his comrades, he shows no fears at his impending fate nor regrets for his ungathered laurels. His last thoughts were with his wife and the child that he had never seen. With frozen fingers he made his last message an appeal for them, and for those also who were left by the gallant commander who lay dead or dying around him. "Surely, surely," he wrote, "a great, rich country like ours will see that those who depend upon us are properly provided for."

There can be no doubt that his appeal will be religiously heeded in England. His expedition had a national rather than a private aspect, and the relatives will be looked upon as national charges. "There is a certain gratification thus sadly gained in the fact that even today, the strongest ties of all, stronger than the desire for fame and wealth, are the family ties of human love."

THE WIDENER LIBRARY

Work has just begun on the new million dollar library to be erected at Harvard by Mrs. George D. Widener of Philadelphia as a memorial to her son, who was lost with the Titanic. A memorial such as this shows a very discriminating spirit on the part of the relatives. It will have all the advantages of architectural beauty and as such will be as fitting a tribute to the memory of Harry Elkins Widener as would be "storied urn or animated bust." It will have the additional advantage of linking the name of the dead with an institution that will be a great power for good and a benefit to thousands of students through the coming years. When the ocean tragedy will have become dimmed by time this library will keep the memory of one of the victims, fresh, and not only his memory but that of his mother, who, in devoting the library as a memorial to him, sets an example of unselfish love that will have a noble influence on the minds and hearts of coming generations.

AT THE CLUB

Do you know, Joe, that a liberal education is a great thing, but it is almost absolutely worthless if its possessor is not a competent worker? I am at an institution of learning, to get out and earn a living for himself. This came from Bill, who was engaged in a fight with the other afternoon. Brought for the latter, on this occasion he was an interested listener and did not appear bored at the meditations of the other. On subjects pertaining to education and its relation to the future of the young man, Joe was especially keen.

"I agree with you, of course, but have you any particular case, and if so, what is it?" he asked. "I certainly have a particular case and I will tell you of it without mentioning any names and as briefly as possible. The other day, a bright appearing young fellow blew into our office and asked for a job. He said he was a graduate of X college and wanted a position with an opportunity for advancement. As that is just the kind of young men we are looking for, I decided to give him an opportunity. I was impressed with his manly and earnest appearance. I learned the great lesson that appearances in many cases are deceitful. The young lad, whom I shall call Charlie, came to work the following day and next day with his free of questions about what he would do with this and how discomfused of that and he became unbearable to the others, and then I took a hand and gave him some work that set him aside from the others. His attitude toward his work and toward ones which would cause one to admire his ambition to learn as much as possible about the business, but on the contrary they were regarding the simplest matters that even a grammar school boy would be expected to understand. He seemed to be entirely lacking in backbone and confidence in himself and had to rely on others to tell him how to do every little thing required of him. Bill paused for a moment reflectively.

"And then what?" inquired Joe with interest.

"And then I finally had to take him into my office, hand him two weeks' salary and in plain language, fired him. But, however, until I had explained to him as clearly as possible what was the matter. I told him that he was not what we required in this business and that what we needed was a man who could take hold and do things for himself without bothering the others about the simplest matters imaginable. He seemed to understand and I do not know whether or not he benefited by the little lecture which I gave him, for he left my office in an unconcerned manner as though to say 'very well, I'll go to someone else.' There is a fellow with a college education that I'm afraid will never make a success in life. And he is only one of many for I have met many such in my travels, men whom are now men and absolute failures, having gotten themselves into a rut and remained there without the strength and ambition to pull themselves out of it."

"I see what you are getting at," replied Joe. "and I agree with you fully. It is not so much what a fellow imbibes in colleges that counts, but it is the training of intellect to think quickly and accurately that is the real object of his education; the training of his mind to learn quickly and the acquiring of the ability to depend on his own efforts. Your man evidently lacked all that and so he began his failure. He was not practical; he had not learned to use his hands in conjunction with his mind."

EDITORIAL COMMENT

Worcester Post: Ende Sun seems to be after the show machinery trust in dead earnest. The new suit instituted Saturday substantially embodied the part of the previous case not carried up, so that the supreme court's decision in favor of the company did not cover the most serious allegations against it, and very similar in nature to those involved in the show trust case in which the defendants promptly threw up their hands. Nevertheless the better way of reaching such cases would be through clear legislation such as that proposed in Congressman John A. Thayer's bill on the subject.

Police Investigation

New York World: But the people have a right to a police force that will do police duty; that will patrol the streets, preserve order in the community and prevent crime or detect and punish criminals; that will neither permit on Broadway the crude criminal methods of a mining camp nor leave outlying districts at the mercy of burglars. For such a police force, organized and commanded for duty and not for profit and oppression, they have looked to the city for years. They are looking now to the state.

Public Safety

Brooklyn Times: The train control board's report to the interstate commerce commission, recommending compulsory adoption of the block signal system by all interstate railroads, makes a strong case for public safety movement, but why not go further. Block signals do not eliminate defective crossovers and weak bridges. What many railroads need is more rigid inspection, enforced by some authority stronger than the company's own volition.

Diaz and Mexico

Fall River Herald: There is little doubt that President Diaz has kept a sensitive finger on the trend of political affairs in Mexico, although sojourning at present in Europe. He ruled too long and helped too many men to confer for fortune to be without influential friends in the republic today. They, as much as any one, probably are responsible for the revolt against Mexico. The same situation would exist with any other man except Diaz in the executive's office, and he has enough enemies to make any attempt on his part to again assume the reins of government a task of no small magnitude. Mexico is torn between two fires. What the outcome will be if the United States does not intervene, is problematical. The outlook at best, judged by the latest reports, is far from bright.

The New View

Johnstown Democrat: It is only recently that it was discovered that government was a matter of business. This century everybody in this country took the view that government was wholly partisan; that officers were created so that office seekers might have jobs. It was only recently, however, that it was discovered that government was a matter of principle. There have been various schools that have taught various doctrines. Today there is a very sharp distinction between those who stand for "government by the people" and those who content in behalf of government "by a representative part of the people."

A Cleaner Regime

Boston Post: The reputation of Boston for "clean government" is one of the sweetest, but there are living in it as many mud and muck women as are found in any city of its size, and they are doing their best to clean up their city and state. To this end they have started an anti-divorce crusade with the purpose of making the period of residence for a divorce one year instead of six months. A recommendation for the change was made recently in the governor's message to the legislature. It is hoped that the legislature has already passed a bill in accordance.

in Nevada before a divorce could be obtained, the divorce colony in that state would naturally dwindle. That would be far better than the present unworkable state of affairs, and Nevada ought to recognize that it would really pay in the end, for there is no doubt that her reputation keeps settlers and money away from her.

George Bernard Shaw

New Bedford Times: London debating societies are having the wit of an eminent man of letters by discussing the question, "Is Shaw overrated?" Are they so dense or unappreciative as to be in doubt as to the place in the literary world that has been won by him who wears inchy-moose whiskers? After all these years would they be so dense as to question or belittle his literary or intellectual prowess? And what an absurd way of determining his worth, the every-day method of debate! Fruit cookies made in the following way are sure to prove favorites in most families: Beat to a cream one cupful of sugar and one-half cupful of shortening. Add one-half cupful of sweet milk, one beaten egg, two and one-half cupfuls of flour and three level teaspoonfuls of baking powder. Knead three-fourths cupful of sugar, one cupful of boiling water, one cupful chopped raisins or figs. Cook until thick. Roll cookies very, very thin. Place teaspoonful of filling on cut out cookie and place another cookie on top. Press the edges lightly together.

The 2 Great Essentials of Food

1st: Taste No matter how nourishing a food may be it must taste good. If it doesn't, it won't coax the digestive juices into action; and if it doesn't do that the nourishment in the food will pass through the body unassimilated.

2nd: Cooking No matter how nourishing a food may be, if it requires cooking it must be properly cooked. Cooking brings about chemical changes, without the aid of which the digestive juices cannot perform their task.

"Jake" Cullen, captain-elect of the high school football team for next season, is one of the best tackles that the high school team has produced in recent years. "Jake's" main quality is his aggressiveness, which is always with him until the final whistle blows. On both offense as well as defensive work the 1913 captain is always in the play and should prove an ideal leader for next season's team.

Thorpe will have some difficulty in winning the majority of the events in the professional all-around championships which will be held at Mechanics hall this month, although he will undoubtedly win the championships on points scored. Lawson Robertson is a sprinter who can beat Thorpe if he is in shape and he should be at the time of the meeting. There are also several other "pros" who will give the Indian a stiff tussle in many of the listed events. If Thorpe takes things too easy he may be beaten at that for the going in each contest will be worth the price of admission. The Carlisle athlete has a bad habit of underestimating an opponent. He was competing in a meet where Thorpe started jumping at 5 feet 6 inches and refused to take off his sweater. He failed the first two tries and when Glen Warner advised him to discard the sweater, he simply smiled in his good natured way. However, on his third trial he again failed and was disqualified from an event which he could have won handily. If the Indian carries out these tactics in the approaching meet he is liable to be beaten.

Dr. Fordyce Coburn has returned from his southern trip and appeared at the high school annex yesterday to take charge of the boys' track work. Not many of the high school athletes were present yesterday, however, as the majority of them were up to the Country club to the hockey game between the high school team and Textile. Coburn received a bad fall on one of the turns and will probably be lame up for a few days, although fortunately no serious damage was done.

Three new marks were yesterday's contribution to the American column of records. Hannes Kolehmainen went out in the afternoon and annexed the indoor record for three miles over in Brooklyn and then came back at the N. Y. A. C. meet at Madison Square gardens in the evening and pulled down his own record in the five-mile event by nearly 20 seconds. Such a performance has never been known before in the history of American distance running. The little Finn, although admitting that he did not feel in the best of shape, went after the five-mile mark from the crack of the gun and finished with a magnificent 24:29.1-5.

Oscar Hedlund, the B. A. A. crack, also showed the New Yorkers how fast the mile could be stepped over a board track and incidentally bettering his own mark by a full second. His time was 4:18.4-5. Hedlund strange a surprise on the critics by defeating Norman Tabor, the Brown university miler, in this event.

The track meet next Saturday night between the local boys and M. J. T. freshmen should prove a great drawing card. The Tech team includes several of various prep schools some who have competed here before. This team is not in the same class as the high school team and if it were not for the fact that the local track is a hard one to travel over for strangers the Lowell boys would not have a chance. As it stands, however, the meet should be a pretty even thing with the odds slightly in favor of the home team.

The South End club should have a very good basketball team with men like Joe Fahey in its lineup. Fahey was caging the ball with the best of them a few seasons ago and from all appearances he has not "gone back" to any great extent. With this player as a foundation the club will find slight difficulty in building strong offense as well as defensive team.

As predicted in this column, the high school hockey team proved the stronger aggregation when they met the team from Textile school yesterday afternoon. "Speed" Carter and Larkin Trull proved to be too fast for the Textile defense and the lone goal that Carter caged on a pass from Trull was enough to decide the contest.

Bad spills and injuries have been encountered by several of the high school track athletes in the past week. Hasky, Quinn, Haggerty, Berry and Exley are all recipients of bruises and scratches received while taking the corners. These corners are a mighty treacherous proposition and proved a head-on for many a prospective winner. If instead of four corners a combination bank was used at each end of the hall the danger of falls would be practically eliminated and faster time could be made in the different events.

OUGHT TO SAVE MONEY

Ball Players Should Have
"Rainy Day" Fund

"A baseball player ought to be at his best between 30 and 35," said James T. McAlister, "and he ought to save $30,000 while in baseball."

The author of the forecast ought to be some authority on the subject, because he was playing the game about that age. Moreover, being chief mogul of the champions of the world, his observations concerning diamond athletes ought to carry weight.

If McAlister's remark is actually true, then baseball is unquestionably the best of all outdoor sports so far as the players thereof are concerned. In no other branch of athletics can a man, as a rule, stand the strain after, say, 27 or 28, and nearly all of them begin to go back at about 30. And how many men have saved $30,000 at the age of 35?

"Of course, a man isn't so fast after 30 as he was before," added the Red Sox president, "but he has learned to think by that time, and he should be more valuable to his club after 30 than before, always provided he has taken care of himself."

McAlister has started a winter dispute already. Let's see what happens now that he has opened a little argument for the fans.

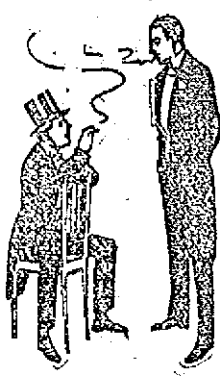

"Is a baseball player at his best between 30 and 35?"

The Sox president made this remark during a conversation in which he was asked how much he thought a big league baseball player ought to save during his career on the diamond. McAlister put the figure at some $30,000. The average life of a ball player who takes care of himself in the big leagues is not much more than 10 years. Most of them enter about 22 or thereabouts.

Roach describes the McGovern-Nelson affair as follows: "Nelson stood up before Terry in three as fast rounds as I have

He took a number of McGovern's wallops in good fashion and also returned some of his own brand. No one then thought that Nelson would become a champion. Brown. He also would like to have Tommy Leach and Johnny Kling. Joe believes that if he can land the two last mentioned he will have the Reds right in the thick of battle all the way next season. Having worked under Chance for so many years and knowing his ways, Joe intends to pursue his ideas.

Frank Chance, it will be remembered, soon after he took charge of the Cubs back in 1905, allowed half a dozen players to go in exchange for the right in the thick of battle all the way next season. Having worked under Chance for so many years and knowing his ways, Joe intends to pursue his ideas.

Walter Robinson, the portly developer of the Red Sox, has signed his contract for the coming season. Having brought forth Babe Marquand and Jeff Touseau, "Robbie" has now signed the new manager of the St. Louis club, has made President S. A. Litchfield of the Montreal club a very handsome offer.

Harold Jannin, the Red Sox recruit, takes long chances playing hockey at Franklin Field. The rules of the game are such that no one is followed more in the bench than the observation, and a toss over the boards followed by a broken or even twisted leg might be the result. Jannin played out of business for the season.

Natty Mattress, the former International league player, and last year with Syracuse in the New York state, is said to be slated for a berth as manager in the Canadian league.

Owen Wilson, better known as "Chief" and who caught a fender buster, was married Feb. 8, in Austin, Tex., to Miss Bernice Moseley. Cards were received today by Barney Dreyfuss and all who put on a good show. Wilson says, "I expect a great season."

In the case of Duffy Lewis, a trade is not unlikely, if "Duff" insists that the Red Sox management meet his figure. Lewis has a dandy throw, but he does not consider him the greatest outfielder who ever played the game; in fact, there are several players in his club, it is believed, in fact, Henkle's chances of landing a regular berth with the club would be better. The Red Sox have a right-handed batter. The Red Sox have a right-handed pitcher batman in his outfit.

It does not look as if the Boston club would come to terms quickly with Buck O'Brien and Bill Carrigan. Carrigan, who has been offered an increase, nor has Charley Hall been put on the list of those who are due for a raise. Collins, the Vermont outfielder, southpaw, and pitcher, Sox star whose contract figures have not been boosted and who can be considered as on the market.

President Jim McAlister of the Red Sox is not one of those who think that a pitcher who can throw a ball faster than a bullet is worth anything on those of today, but he insists that there are no catchers today that begin to have the class of Mike Kelly and "Buck" Ewing and have been none since those famous stars quit the game. That is the one department in which the game has not advanced, he says. He says that no one has ever had the technique of the best man of today," exclaimed the Red Sox chief the other day, "but they were constantly pulling off something new and unexpected. They were among our greatest creative ball players. Each was a baseball genius and such men have been few and far between in the game. Brains in a catcher is one of the greatest assets of a baseball club, and 'Kelly' and 'Buck' were able to both think and do things that no one else thought of. If you were to name the greatest players the game has produced you could not keep their names off the list."

Larry Reynolds, a former West Point cadet, who caught Pitchers Hyatt and Devore, has signed to play with Pittsburgh. Felix Morales of New Brunswick, N. J., has sent his contract to the Sox at a salary of $10,000. Manager Zeller will have a big squad to pick from, possibly 25 men reporting for positions at Spring practice.

President Dan Johnson has signed another California umpire in George Hildebrand, who was a satisfaction in the Pacific coast league last season. Eugene McGreevy, also a coast umpire, was signed by Johnson. McGreevy, who was on the American league staff all last year, was picked up by Dan at the Golden Gate, too.

Joe Thomas and Bill McCloskey are both anxious to win tomorrow night's match, the victor will challenge Eddie McMorris, who is accepted by the sporting critics as the best in 158-pound division. Thomas has already opened negotiations for a match with the winner of the Bill McKinnon-Jack Dillon match and he has practically been assured of a meeting with K. O. Brennan, the Buffalo underweight.

McCloskey tried to secure a meeting with Billy Papke and Klaus while at Paris, but both side-stepped the issue with the Quaker fighter. In the event of his defeating Thomas, as he asserts great confidence in his ability to score the win, McCloskey will look for a chance with Klaus and Papke also. Whether Tinker will be able to control the cleverness of the Lowell boxer, is a question. McCloskey is a rusher and delights in mixing it with his opponents. Joe Thomas is considered at his best boxing the rusher, so that members are assured of a great bout.

The semi-final will be one of the fastest of the season, as the principals, Boyle and Corrigan are both finished boxers and capable of stepping at a lively pace. The two men are well trained. Gardner Brook will appear against Young Crow in one of the prelims and Young Morgan and Young Daly will furnish the other.

DIAMOND NOTES

Al Mattern, formerly of the Boston Nationals, who was sold by President John M. Ward, early last spring to Montreal of the International league, will probably be back in the big show and in the National league before the season opens. It is well known that Mattern is the Murphy of the game, and he has offered four players for him, the players to be named and delivered on March 1. But Murphy has a preference for Mattern, and for Miller Hughes, the new manager of the St. Louis club, has made President S. A. Litchfield of the Montreal club a very handsome offer.

Mattern won twenty-seven games and lost ten while with the Montreal club. He divided the honors with Nap Rucker of the Brooklyn for being the best left-handed pitcher in the National league in 1910, but it is declared that Fred Lake, when manager of the Doves, used Mattern too much, working him in fifty-two games, and thus tiring him out.

Wilbert Robinson, the portly developer of the Red Sox, has signed his contract for the coming season. Having brought forth Babe Marquand and Jeff Touseau, "Robbie" has now signed the new manager of the St. Louis club, has made President S. A. Litchfield of the Montreal club a very handsome offer.

HIGHLAND CLUB PARTY

Bowling Contest Interested the Members

The Highland club held a very enjoyable stag party last evening with a bowling tournament as the feature. All the older members were present as well as the younger element in the club and the evening proved a very pleasant one for all who attended.

The main sport of the evening came in the matched game between "Tom" Lawson and Wallace Drew. These two professional rollers played a very close game which was greatly appreciated by all the spectators. "Tom" finally won out by a garrison finish in the last two boxes, but the score was so close that another match will be arranged shortly between these two exponents of the candle-pin game.

Prizes were awarded in both the candle-pin and big pin contests. Both were entered by the majority of the members and excitement ran high, especially toward the end of the matches. A. G. McCurdy was the winner of the candle pin roll and received a handsome watch chain as a memento of his prowess. Frederick E. Woodworth was second in this event and was presented with a pair of cuff links. Arthur J. Dion won the big pin contest and received a silk umbrella while Orrin Griffin captured the second prize, an electric flash lamp.

The entertainment committee had good reason to feel proud of its achievement last night and a hearty request was presented by all present for another bowling tournament.

Lowell Art Association

The lecture "On Saddlebags in the Yellowstone" to be given by Prof. George B. Shattuck in Colonial hall on Wednesday night of next week will not be free to members of the Lowell art association, as many of the lectures are, but on the other hand a 25 cent ticket, if purchased in advance, will entitle members to a reserved seat. There should be a wide interest in this lecture both for its unique illustrations, and because Prof. Shattuck has made several remarkable geological journeys through the Yellowstone and tells an unusual story of what he has seen.

STUDENT DIES UNDER ICE

Gives Life in Lake for Hub Friend

PRINCETON, N. J., Feb. 13.—Vincent O'Brien of 119 East Woodlawn avenue, Germantown, Penn., a student at St. Vincent's parochial school, near Princeton, was drowned in Carnegie lake before rescuers could reach him while he was making an effort to save the life of a companion with whom he was skating.

Thomas F. Ryan of Boston, the companion he tried to save, succeeded in reaching shallow water and was rescued by ice cutters.

The accident occurred on the north-east side of the lake. Ryan left his companion and ventured on the thin ice at the edge of the lake. He fell in, but succeeded in getting a footing and keeping himself above water.

Hearing his cries for help, Vincent O'Brien rushed to him. Ryan was in the water called to him not to dive in, but he disregarded the warning, threw off his skates and jumped in the water, but was drawn under the ice and was not recovered.

Ryan is in a serious condition from exposure.

Lincoln Day Observance

The birthday of Abraham Lincoln was observed in a fitting manner yesterday by Molly Varum chapter, D. A. R. The observance was held in the Spaulding house, the headquarters of the chapter and was largely attended.

The feature of the meeting was the reading of several poems laudatory of the great president by Rev. A. C. Perrin. The poems were by the following authors: Tom Taylor—who at one time visited Lincoln, but who, after the death of the president, wrote a laudatory poem in which he acknowledged his error; Wall Whitman, James Russell Lowell, Edwin Markham and, of very recent date, Judge Stafford of Washington, D. C.

Mrs. Charles M. Williams favored the audience with two patriotic songs, Mrs. Hawes' "Battle Hymn" and "Tenting on the Old Camp Ground."

The report of the chapter, Miss M. Ida Howe, read selections from letters by a Lowell woman who, when a high school girl, spent the summer of 1865 in Washington. She referred to the assassination and gave her personal impressions of the group of conspirators.

At the business meeting preceding, the chapter elected Mrs. John K. Whittier and Mrs. Burton H. Wiggins delegates to the continental congress at Washington.

Will Observe Anniversary

The members of the Women's Christian Temperance union on Feb. 22 will observe the 40th anniversary of the Hingham county organization. The affair will be held at the High Street church and there will be two sessions at 10 a. m. and 4 p. m. and 42 unions will be represented by delegates.

Women of world-wide reputation in W. C. T. U. work will be among the speakers. These will include the national president, Mrs. Lillian M. N. Stevens, Miss Anna Gordon, world's secretary; the state president, Mrs. Katherine Lent Stevenson, and the county president, Mrs. Henry C. Rolfe of Concord. Mrs. Rolfe was present at the organization meeting in 1873. Miss Dorothy Hurd and Mrs. Percy J. Wilson will be the soloists, and Miss Ella Penn will preside at the organ. The meetings will be open, and the public is invited.

MR. FRANK WIGGIN

Receives $1000 Under Will of His Late Cousin, Mrs. Mary A. Wiggin of Bath, Me.

By the will of Mrs. Mary A. Wiggin of Bath, Me., Frank Wiggin of Lowell is to receive $1000, that sum being left to each of her five cousins. The estate amounted in all to over $100,000, but is divided up in numerous small amounts. Mr. Wiggin is a clerk at the Thompson Hardware Co.

Iron and Steel Master Dead

BETHLEHEM, Pa., Feb. 13.—John Fritz, iron and steel master, died today, aged 51. He was the last survivor of the group of men who introduced into the United States the Bessemer steel process which was responsible for the tremendous development of the steel industry.

A GOOD TONIC FOR WINTER WEATHER

Our damp, cold and foggy weather is most trying even to the strongest constitution, and is particularly hard on those who suffer from nervousness, sleeplessness, anæmia or stomach and liver troubles in any form. To overcome the depressing effect of the weather, strengthen the weakened nerves, stomach and liver, and start rich, red blood coursing through the entire system, carrying renewed life, energy and vigor to every part, a good tonic is necessary; and nothing has been found to equal the prescription recently recommended in an article by the eminent French physician, Dr. Pasquier. It consists of 2 oz. Tincture of Cardamoms, 2 oz. Elkhire Calisaya, 2 oz. Fluid Extract and 2 oz. Disilled Water—all easily obtainable at slight expense from any druggist.

Directions: Ask the druggist to mix all the ingredients except the Salogyn in an 8 oz. bottle and give you the Salogyn separately. When you get home add half the Salogyn. After taking the Salogyn and continue taking as before. Dose: Two table-spoonfuls twenty minutes before meals. The feeling of increased strength, vigor and vitality after the first day or two will be most astonishing. Inquiries among leading druggists will show that all the ingredients of this prescription are simple, standard pharmaceutical products kept in stock by most druggists.

SHOE FACTORY FLOODED

$40,000 Loss by Bursting of Water Pipe

BOSTON, Feb. 13.—The bursting of an elbow of pipe attached to a water tank on top of the Faunce & Spilney shoe factory in Lynn flooded the entire building yesterday, damaging the building and stock to an extent estimated at $40,000. Many employees were forced to stop work as a result of the drenching.

BILLERICA

Lincoln's birthday was observed in Billerica yesterday in a very quiet way. Exercises were held in the public schools during the morning session and many of the children gave recitations and several memorial songs were sung. The schools closed at noon.

The ladies of the G. A. R. celebrated Lincoln's birthday by a visit to the home of their president, Mrs. Mina Gardner on Boston road. Several musical selections were given by Mrs. Edward Spaulding, Mrs. Merriam and Mrs. Brewster. Supper was served and a very pleasant afternoon was spent by all present.

The "Howell Girls" held a very pleasant meeting at the home of Mrs. Richard Perry on Wilson street. Last night with a large number of members present. The regular business for the month was taken up and a large amount of sewing was accomplished. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Perry, assisted by her daughters, Misses Hilma and Doris and Miss Eleanor Nickerson.

Ice cutting was started on the Concord river yesterday by Mr. Bernard Kearney of North Billerica. The ice is about 10 or 12 inches thick and is considered of a very good quality. If the cold weather lasts a few days longer they will have no trouble in harvesting the usual ice crop.

Work is still discontinued at the Boston & Maine repair shops, the weather being too cold for any outside work. It was stated this morning that if there is a change in the weather by Monday the work will be started in full. About 175 men are out of work at present on account of the cold weather.

The regular meeting of the Billerica grange will be held this evening in the grange hall.

Slayer Escaped 20 Years Ago

JACKSON, Miss., Feb. 13.—Tom Atkinson, who 20 years ago escaped from the state penitentiary while serving a life sentence for murder, walked into Governor Brewer's office yesterday and surrendered. Atkinson is more than 60 years old. His friends hope to obtain a pardon for him.

Four years ago Atkinson defied two companies of militia sent to Winston county to capture him.

DENY BIG BILL'S STORIES

Men Named by Keliher Talk to Grand Jury

BOSTON, Feb. 13.—Two former state senators and three banking men were among the witnesses who testified before the Suffolk county grand jury yesterday in the investigation of the statement which "Big Bill" Keliher made to former Gov. John L. Bates, receiver of the wrecked National City bank of Cambridge.

Doyle Tells of $8000

Former Senator James H. Doyle testified to giving $5000 to Attorney Daniel H. Conkley, Keliher's counsel, as a retainer. This money, which was part of the fee of $15,000, he said, Mrs. Keliher gave him. He also testified to the friendship that formerly existed between Mr. Keliher and himself and to his version of certain incidents mentioned by Keliher in his statement. In reply to Dist. Atty. Pelletier's questions, Doyle is said to have denied Keliher's statements.

Never Knew Keliher

Israel Rabinowich, a banker, testified that he never knew Keliher and never had anything to do with him. In reply to Dist. Atty. Pelletier's questions he is said to have denied statements made by Keliher.

George W. Gale, a former director of the wrecked National City bank of Cambridge, and Frank Earle, the bank's former cashier, likewise denied the statements and incidents relating to the statement to the receiver. Earle is said to have denied to the grand jury that he ever had any knowledge of Coleman's thieving until the bank closed.

Dentist Being Stakeholder

James Ormond, who supplies the carriages at one of the downtown hotels, said after leaving the grand jury room that he had been called on account of a rumor that he held a stake of $10,000 said to have been contributed by Martin Walsh, the gambler friend of Keliher. Keliher was supposed to be betting $5000 that he would not be indicted, and Walsh $5000 that he would. Ormond denied that he ever held such a stake or had anything to do with either Keliher's or Walsh's affairs.

The grand jury will close the investigation, it is believed, today.

W. W. Lockhart, who was employed as a chauffeur for George W. Coleman, the $12-a-week bookkeeper who looted the bank and lost the money at fake faro in New York, to which he was steered by Keliher, has been summoned to testify today. A summons has also been served on John J. McHugh, a brother of Mrs. Keliher.

Gets Anonymous Letter

At the result of an anonymous letter, Dist. Atty. Pelletier has also called Joel Dodge to appear before the grand jury today. Dodge was a member of the grand jury which heard the testimony which Keliher claims he saw in a copy of the grand jury proceedings before he was indicted by the federal grand jury.

"Poco" Bennett, the money lender, who was summoned yesterday, was not called.

5 RESCUED FROM FIRE

Women Carried From Tenements

BOSTON, Feb. 13.—Five women were rescued by firemen and citizens and others were overcome by smoke during the fire in the business and residential block at 89 and 92 Ruggles street, Roxbury, about noon yesterday. The fire originated in the grocery store of R. Corkon on the ground floor at 89 Ruggles street and caused a damage of $2000.

Miss Norah Condon, 19 years old, an invalid, who was sleeping on the third floor, was carried to safety on the shoulders of her brother, Frank Condon. Condon managed to guide himself through the smoke and flame by seizing the balustrade, never relinquishing his clutch until he pitched down the steps to the street with his burden.

Women Carried Out

Mrs. Frank Gibbons, 49 years old, who lives underneath the apartments of Mrs. Margaret Condon, was carried to the street by Ladderman Webber and firemen of Engine 13.

At the same time, Mrs. Mary Magoun, who lives in the top floor of the building, was being carried to safety through a rear exit by members of Ladder 12 and Engine 13.

They found her almost exhausted from smoke in her kitchen, where she had remained after seeing that her three children were taken from the burning house by members of the Condon family.

Mrs. Magoun had reached behind to secure her bank book and valuables, but lingered too long. She would have been suffocated but for the firemen stumbling across her as they commenced attacking the flames that appeared from the floor below.

Two other women, members of families living in the annex in the rear of the building, were assisted to the street. They were suffering from smoke.

AT THE Y. M. C. I.

Social and Entertainment Will be Held This Evening—Matthews of Billerica Will be Entertained

The Y. M. C. I. will present a social and athletic entertainment for their members at their Belvidere club rooms tonight. There will be tournaments in most of the card games, including whist, pitch and cribbage. These games always create much sport and good natured joking among the participants. A wrestling exhibition will also be given by Joe Blain and Michael Keefe in which a lot of interest has been aroused. This feature should be productive of great interest as each man is well versed in the various holds and the most approved manner of breaking them.

The real contest of the evening will be between the howling team representing the Fr. Mathew's Temperance society of North Billerica and the Y. M. C. I. This match was arranged some time ago and is sure to be a close game. The Y. M. C. I. team is composed of some of the best rollers this side of Boston and is confident of winning. A novel indoor game will be pitched with rubber-quills, and will be watched with much interest. Mr. William C. Harrington is chairman of the entertainment committee which has charge of the affair.

Girl Picks Insult from Crowd of 300

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., Feb. 13.—To identify the man who insulted her, Miss Kate White, an employee of the postmaster at the navy yard, has the commanding officer of the marine guard of the yard barracks, prison ship Southern and naval prison, line up the corps for her. She looked 300 men in the face and finally picked out the offender, who will likely be court-martialed.

King George Gives Thanks For American Sympathy—President Taft Received Cable From British ruler

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—In response to his message of sympathy for the death of Captain Scott, the Antarctic explorer, President Taft received the following cable from King George of Great Britain:

"My countrymen join with me in sincere thanksgiving to you and the people of the United States of America for your message of sympathy in the loss of Captain Scott and his brave companions, for whom we deeply mourn."

CHRISTCHURCH, New Zealand, Feb. 13.—The bodies of Captain Robert F. Scott and his four brave companions, who gave their lives in the advancement of geographical knowledge, rest in nature's great mausoleum in the Antarctic.

They were left in their white mantle where they had worked and died. Left in the frozen silence where the gallant leader, dying, spent his last day in writing his great epic, his "Message to the Public."

The bodies of Scott, Dowers, Dr. Wilson, Oates and Petty Officer Evans could have been brought back by the rescue party, but all agreed to leave them where they were found.

Had Plenty of Fuel

Commander Evans of the Terra Nova, Scott's vessel, which arrived here yesterday, said that, reckoning by the progress of the supporting parties, Captain Scott should have returned to Hut Point by March 17.

Regarding the shortage of fuel, he said that Scott had enough fuel to last a month beyond the date of his expected return. The Terra Nova brought every written record of the Southern party, including the private diaries, which will be handed to the relatives of the dead explorers.

Captain Scott kept a daily record until March 24, and spent the last day in writing his message to the public.

Commander Evans is not inclined to speak of the fragile side of the expedition, and has forbidden his fellow officers to speak. He will compile Captain Scott's story for publication.

All on board the Terra Nova look to be in good health and bear no outward signs of the hardships they have undergone.

The real contest of the evening will be between the howling team representing the Fr. Mathew's Temperance society of North Billerica and the Y. M. C. I. This match was arranged some time ago and is sure to be a close game. The Y. M. C. I. team is composed of some of the best rollers this side of Boston and is confident of winning. A novel indoor game will be pitched with rubber-quills, and will be watched with much interest. Mr. William C. Harrington is chairman of the entertainment committee which has charge of the affair.

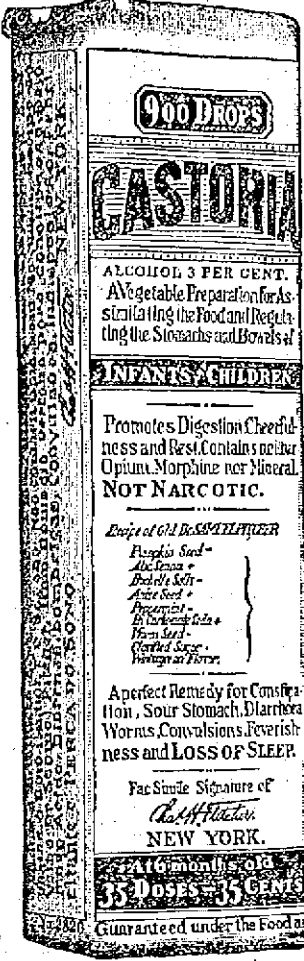

Girl Picks Insult from Crowd of 300

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., Feb. 13.—To identify the man who insulted her, Miss Kate White, an employee of the postmaster at the navy yard, has the commanding officer of the marine guard of the yard barracks, prison ship Southern and naval prison, line up the corps for her. She looked 300 men in the face and finally picked out the offender, who will likely be court-martialed.

Counterfeits.

Read what one of the GREATEST NEWSPAPERS IN AMERICA has to say on this subject:

"The manufacturers of Castoria have been compelled to spend hundreds of thousands of dollars to familiarize the public with the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. This has been necessitated by reason of pirates counterfeiting the Castoria trademark. This counterfeiting is a crime not only against the proprietors of Castoria, but against the growing generation. All persons should be careful to see that Castoria bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher, if they would guard the health of their children. Parents, and mothers in particular, ought to carefully examine the Castoria advertisements which have been appearing in this paper, and to remember that the wrapper of every bottle of genuine Castoria bears the fac-simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher, under whose supervision it has been manufactured continuously for over thirty years.—Philadelphia Bulletin.

Letters from Prominent Druggists addressed to Chas. H. Fletcher.

Conger Bros. of St. Paul, Minn., say: "Fletcher's Castoria is certainly full of merit and worthy of recommendation."

G. C. A. Loder, of Philadelphia, Pa., says: "For 20 years we have sold Fletcher's Castoria and are pleased to state that it has given universal satisfaction."

The Scholtz Drug Co., of Denver, Colo., says: "Fletcher's Castoria has surely become a household word. Scarcely every family where there are children uses it."

Hosland & Mansfield, of Boston, Mass., say: "We have nothing but good to say about your Castoria and we do not hesitate to give it our unqualified endorsement."

Riker's Drug Stores, of New York City, say: "Fletcher's Castoria is one of the oldest and most popular preparations in our stores. We have nothing but good to say about it."

Wolf-Wilson Drug Co., of St. Louis, Mo., says: "Of the thousands of patent medicines for which we have demand there are a very few of them that we can conscientiously recommend and your Castoria is included in this few."

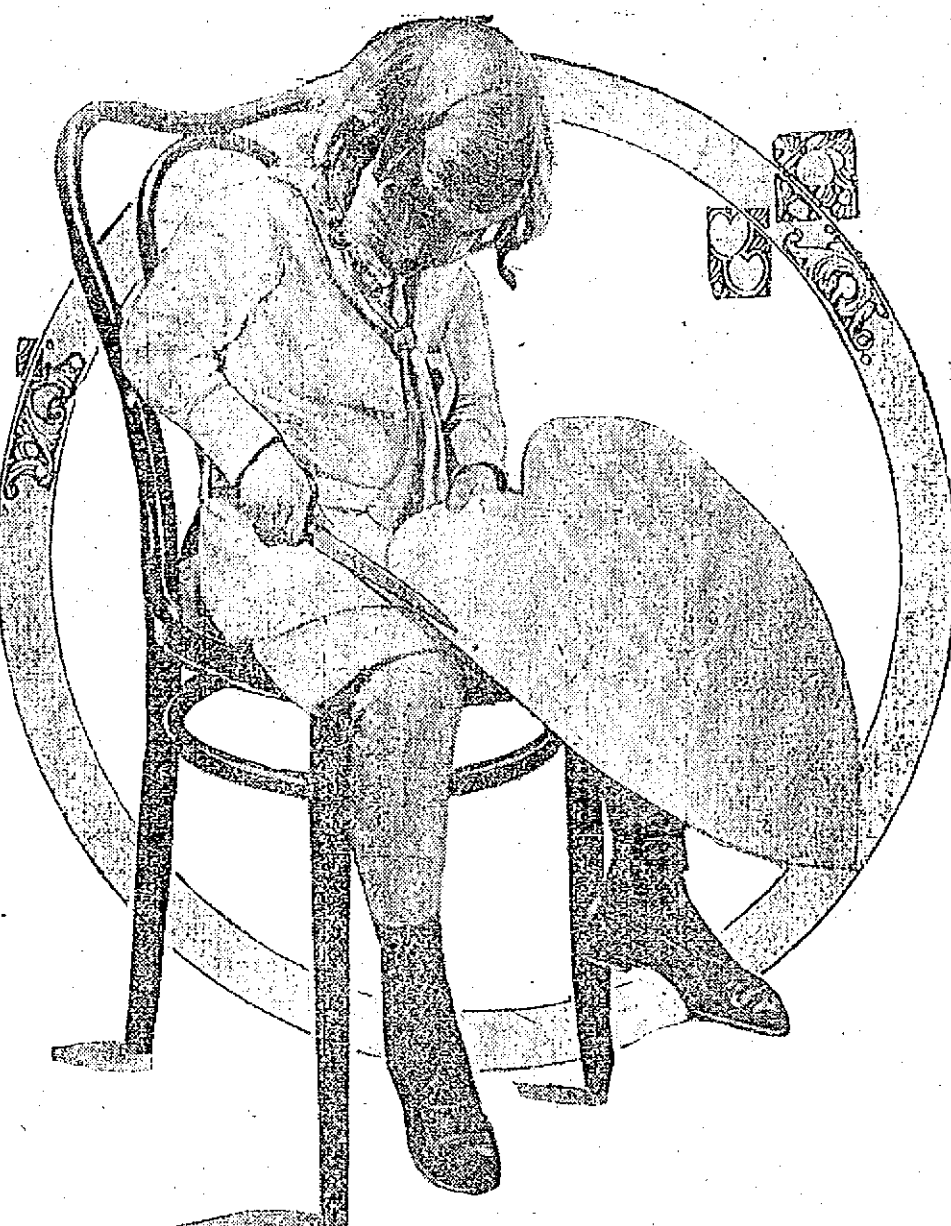

D. R. Dyche & Co., of Chicago, Ill., say: "The increasing demand for your Castoria shows that a discriminating public is not slow to seek out a remedy of merit and once convinced that it does all and even more than claimed they do not hesitate to recommend it to their friends."

The Owl Drug Co., of San Francisco, Cal., says: "We have always been a believer in the 'original man protection' and have been particular never to sell anything but the genuine and original Castoria (Fletcher's). We have many calls every day for this article from people who say they would not be without it in their homes."

BOARD OF TRADE ACTIVE

Says That Alderman Exceeded Appropriation

PROMINENT RAILROAD MAN TO ADDRESS BOARD

Report of the Highway Committee on Connecting Bridge Street with the Boulevard in Draught

The board of directors of the Lowell board of trade held its regular monthly meeting yesterday and transacted considerable business. Several reports were heard and the report that one of the members of the municipal council had violated the city charter by expending more than $100,000, which was brought to the attention of the board. It was also announced that on Feb. 24 a meeting of the board will be held at Associate hall, at which time a lecture will be given by G. E. Byrnes, vice president of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad.

The meeting was called to order by President George M. Harrigan shortly after 5 o'clock and six new members were admitted into the organization, namely: Charles E. Cook, Robert E. Crowley, Ralph A. Ward, Thomas H. Key, John Henry Draper and William H. Murphy.

Whereas, the annual reports of the postmaster general for fiscal years ending June 30, 1910 and 1911, show that first class (letter) mail, produced in the first of these two years a profit of over $18,000,000, and in the second (the current year), a profit of more than $2,000,000, which sums were entirely absorbed by the losses incurred in handling other classes of mail at less than cost of service.

Therefore, he it resolved by the Lowell board of trade, that all users of letter postage should be accorded, at once, a one-cent rate for the ordinary letter, and we, therefore, ask members of congress from this state to support, respectively, senate bill No. 7753 introduced by Senator Theodore E. Burton of Ohio, and house bill No. 27,867, a duplicate thereof, introduced by Hon. John W. Weeks of C. of Mass.

It was further asked that they use their efforts to secure this reduction with as little delay as possible and certainly during the present session of congress.

A local resident wrote to the board, complaining about the condition of the electric cars used in Lowell, especially on the Fletcher street and Broadway lines, and expressed the belief that the railroad company will be asked by the board of trade to provide better cars for the line. The letter was read to the meeting and referred to the transportation committee.

It was voted to make the members of the executive committee delegates to the county council. Robert E. Murden, chairman of the committee on highways, submitted the following report:

In accordance with the vote of the directors, the committee on highways reports that it has organized the community council. This is composed of delegates from Lowell, Braintree, Weymouth, Cohasset, Billerica, Westford, Tyngsboro and Dunstable. The delegates from the towns were invited to a supper which was served in the Lowell board of trade rooms, at which time details of organization and the purposes of the council were discussed. The visitors agreed unanimously that the plan was a good one and that it would be possible, with such an organization, to do much to improve the quality of highways in this vicinity, as well as take up other matters, such as trolley express, public market, etc. It is expected that the community council will devote its chief attention, for the present, to the matter of good roads, but the council made it apparent that it would work to advance the project of the Lowell board of trade where such projects were of interest to the community.

Your committee also held a conference concerning the connecting of Bridge street with the new river boulevard and a petition has been filed at city hall, asking that a survey be made along the river bank parallel to First street, to find out the probable cost of building a road from the corner of Read and First streets, along the land of the Locks and Canals to the city line, where it would join the new boulevard now being built by the state.

The committee also recommends that the board petition the city government to establish Nichols and Smith streets as one-way streets and that the large open area in the rear of the police station be made available as a parking space for automobiles which now block the passage of such streets as Middle street. These two recommendations seem to your committee highly desirable for the benefit of the city's traffic.

Respectfully submitted,
Highway Committee,
R. F. Marden, chairman.

The waterways committee submitted the following report:

At a meeting attended by the following members: Charles H. McIntire, Edward B. Pierce, Captain White, Jas. McManmon, Perley Gilbert, A. C. Knight, Edward Lytle, it was unanimously voted that the committee should recommend to the directors the endorsement of the report of the Merrimack valley waterway board, known as house bill No. 1524.

Hon. James E. O'Donnell, Edward B. Pierce, Capt. W. C. White and John H. Murphy were appointed a committee to represent the board at a conference to be held in Boston Feb. 15, 1913, under the auspices of the Boston chamber of commerce, for the consideration of the developments of the harbors and inland waterways of Massachusetts.

It was announced by the educational committee that the essay contest among the school children of the city, which proved so interesting last year, is to be taken up again this year. The subject to be written on is "The Civil War." Suitable prizes will be awarded the winners.

The proposed highway from Moody street to First street, planned by Frank Ricard, a member of the board, came for discussion, and inasmuch as it was known to be opposed by some business men of the city, it was thought best to continue action on it until a more general discussion could be had.

Former President Harvey B. Greene called the attention of the board to the fact that a certain commissioner had violated the city charter by expending more than his appropriation, and he said this action should formally be called to the attention of the municipal council and something done. It was voted to lay the matter on the table for the present.

Secretary Murphy announced that the board will hold a public meeting at Associate hall, Feb. 24, when Mr. Byrnes will be the speaker.

Aprons for the Bride

The little bride who is going to take care of her new home with her own hands will appreciate as a gift a top to toe kitchen and workday apron, which will cover her frock entirely. Such an apron should reach well over the front of the frock and may be made with large armholes finished with piping or have loose sleeves attached at the wrists with buttoned cuffs, as preferred.

The sleeveless apron is the daintier style, and most women prefer it, since the sleeves of the morning dress or shirt waist are usually rolled back for household duties and apron sleeves are rather in the way.

Make the apron of pink and white or of blue and white chambray and pipe it with white or a plain color. Round out the neck and pin or add a turnover collar and a smart little bow, and be sure to remember pockets. A big one at each side, just below the waist, will add charm to the apron and be appreciated by its wearer.

The apron especially designed for wear during hours devoted to needlework is fashioned so that the lower part of the apron draws up like a bag, holding one's work conveniently and safely until one is ready to sit down to one's sewing again.

A practical model is of flowered pongee silk, the bag being made by turning up the lower edge of the apron and running a casing along the edge of this turned up piece. Another casing is put in the apron itself at the same height from the bottom, and ribbons drawn up the casings to form a draw bag or lengthen out when the bag is to be turned into an apron. Two small pockets of the silk add to the prettiness of the apron above the needlework receptacle, and the top of the apron is drawn up by ribbon run through another casing.

FIERCE STREET BATTLE IN MEXICO

ALDERMAN BROWN LOSES POINT FEDERALS EXPECT REBELS WILL SOON CASH REGISTER CASE WENT TO JURY

His Signature on Bills Unnecessary—Injunction on Fire Auto Stands

BE REDUCED TO SUBMISSION

Government Army Strongly Reinforced, Opened Battle With Heavy Firing —Federalists Outnumber Rebels

Cash Register Case Went to Jury

Trial of Patterson and 29 Other Officers Charged With Conspiracy Completed Today

At the superior court in East Cambridge this forenoon the hearing on the temporary injunction secured by Alderman Brown to restrain the city of Lowell from paying for the Knox fire auto came up for argument on facts. City Solicitor Hennessey, assisted by Frank E. Dunbar, Esq., appeared for the city and Albert S. Howard, Esq., for the petitioner.

The counsel on both sides submitted an agreed statement of facts relative to the purchase of the auto; the same being received by Judge Hall in the afternoon. The full bench heard the case on points of law. There was no argument from either side relative to this part of the case. The temporary injunction on this point will stand until such time as the full bench hands down a decision based upon the law and the facts in the case.

On the point raised by Alderman Brown and put forward for the interpretation of the charter provisions as to whether his signature is required on every bill before it can be paid by the city, brief arguments were made and Judge Hall decided against the petitioner. The court held that the provisions of the charter did not authorize the commissioner of finance to hold up the city's business awaiting his signature to authorize payment of any bill legally due. Judge Hall said that the city's business could not be left open to obstruction at the whim of any alderman.

The effect of Judge Hall's decision, therefore, is that Commissioner Brown's petition for injunction in the fire truck case is granted by Judge Hall, while the petition restraining the city treasurer from paying bills without the signature of the finance commissioner is denied.

UNKNOWN MAN FROZEN TO DEATH

Was Found on the Lowell Road in Tyngsboro Today—Body is Awaiting Identification

An unknown man was found in a dying condition early this morning on the Lowell line of the Bay State Street Railway Co. in Tyngsboro, opposite George I. Cady's farm. He was quickly hurried to the residence of Dr. F. D. Lambert in the town, but despite medical attendance, he died soon after his arrival at the doctor's office. The body was later viewed by Medical Examiner J. V. Meigs of this city, and the cause of death it is believed was freezing.

The body was found at about 6.30 o'clock by Murray Parrish of Tyngsboro, who was on his way to work. He saw the body of a man lying near the car tracks in the snow and quickly went to his assistance, thinking the man had met with an accident. After a thorough examination Mr. Parrish found that the man was almost frozen to death and quickly summoned help and the unfortunate man was removed to the home of Dr. Lambert, who did all in his power to revive him, but his efforts were of no avail, for the man breathed his last a short time later without regaining consciousness. The body was later removed to the funeral parlors of Undertaker George W. Healey in Branch street, where it awaits identification.

Deceased was apparently 35 years of age. His hair is curly and of a dark brown hue, while his eyes are hazel. He has a smooth face and has a gold crown on the left upper side of the mouth, while another is situated on the right side. His teeth are fine, and all indications point to the man not belonging to the working class, for his hands are soft and show no sign of manual labor. He weighs about 170 pounds and measures about five feet, nine inches. He wore a blue suit, blue checked shirt, derby hat which was said by W. E. Adams & Son of Montpelier, Vt., and black shoes.

In his pockets were found a sum of money and a gold watch marked with a monogram "P. K." or "F. K." Deceased wore a white collar and a blue tie, and his laundry mark was "T. P. S."

At the time of going to press the body had not been identified.

THE ANNUAL BUDGET

The Municipal Council to Take Up Estimates

The municipal council will tackle the department appropriations at its next meeting. Governments of other years have found the appropriation but a hard one to crack, but the members of this year's government seem confident that one meeting will suffice to distribute the money for the year. Governments of former years have held as many as ten and even twelve meetings before reaching an agreement, but things were different in those days. The members of the committee in years gone by and under the old form of government were not the real actors on the stage. It was a case of more or less catering by members of the city government who were wont to stand in with the heads of departments in order that they might be able to find work for their friends during the year. Under the present form of government the men who appropriate the money are the men who have the spending of it and it is up to them to make a good showing. The municipal council is expected to show a good substantial saving in 1913.

Department Summoned to Lively Blaze

Just before going to press an alarm was rung in from box 16 at the corner of Central and Mill streets. The department found a brisk blaze in a house on Chapel street, said to be the property of a Mr. Flynn. The origin of the fire is not known. The flames gained rapid headway until the department got in its effective work and quickly extinguished them. The damage, it is said, was not great.

Wilson to Resign March 1

TRENTON, N. J., Feb. 12.—President-elect Wilson announced today he would resign the governorship of New Jersey to take effect on March 1. The governorship will be automatically passed to James H. Fisher, president of the senate. National Committee man Sapp of Kansas urged Mr. Wilson today to appoint as secretary of agriculture President Waters of the Kansas Agricultural college.

Government Army Strongly Reinforced, Opened Battle With Heavy Firing —Federalists Outnumber Rebels

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 12.—Another fierce street battle here which was expected to be decisive was begun between the federal troops supporting President Madero, and the rebels under Felix Diaz at 8 o'clock this morning. The government forces had the advantage in numbers, their army totaling 7000 men against the 3000 revolutionists under Diaz.

General Huerto and President Madero declared that they would be badly disappointed and surprised if Felix Diaz and his mutinous army were not reduced to submission before tonight. The battle opened with heavy firing by the federal artillery which had been strongly reinforced in the night. The rebels cupped the same positions as they held yesterday around the arsenal and the Young Men's Christian association building and from there replied with a hot fire.

The populace had either deserted the center of the city or remained hidden in the houses, as it was impossible to stir on the streets without running enormous risks.

The federal forces were strengthened last night by the arrival of detachments of all arms of the service until nearly seven thousand men were massed against the rebels, who had fortified themselves in the district of which the center was formed by the arsenal.

The rebels on the other hand had not increased in number and the size of the army under the command of Diaz is believed to be a little over 3500.

Most of the troops who arrived in the night were those commanded by General Angeles which had been called from Cuernavaca. The total of these is said to be 2500 and they brought with them two pieces of heavy artillery with much ammunition and stores.

Lieut. Col. Barron who has conducted a dash campaign during the revolution in Michoacan and Guanajuato, arrived with a small force while Col. Ocaranza, another young officer with a reputation for brilliant work, came in the head of 200 federal troops from Vera Cruz.

SHIELDS BURST THROUGH WALLS OF AMERICAN CLUB

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 12.—Shortly before noon shells burst through the walls of the American club, but injured nobody. The building was peppered with bullets.

At the same time, during an arm action, some bullets fell within the club grounds in the heart of the district, tacitly agreed on as the neutral zone.

The infantry fighting lasted only a few minutes and was succeeded by a more intense cannonade from the rebels at the arsenal.

The cannonade then lost some of its violence and it seemed that the rebels were conserving their fire, although they continued to throw shells toward the palace.

FIGHTING BEGAN BY FEDERALISTS AT 8 O'CLOCK THIS MORNING

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 12.—The fighting was begun at 8 o'clock by a federal battery of artillery and a general attack on the rebel positions was expected to start this afternoon.

WHEREABOUTS OF PASSENGER TRAIN FROM MEXICO CITY NOT KNOWN

LAREDO, Texas, Feb. 12.—The whereabouts of the northbound passenger train from Mexico City which left Tuesday night still is unreported and there is apprehension for the safety of its passengers. An unsuccessful attack was made on the south-bound Mexican national lines passenger train which left here Tuesday.

LIEUT. COL. NAVARRETE IN GENERAL CHARGE OF FEDERAL ARTILLERY

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 12.—General Huerto placed in general charge of the federal artillery. Lieut. Col. Ruben Navarrete, who has the reputation of being the most capable artilleryist of the Mexican army. He gained fame in the campaign against Orco when he was under General Huerta's command.

It was difficult to see how the rebels could long resist the fire poured in by the federalists but they again showed the same excellent marksmanship which characterized their previous fighting and this enabled them to offer a stern resistance.

THE GOVERNMENT FORCES ARE BEING VERY STRONGLY REINFORCED

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 12.—Heavy fighting was expected to occur early today between the rebels and the federal forces in the center of the city. At 6 o'clock movements of troops were observed both in the rebel and federal positions.

There was a scattering fire throughout the night and a sharp exchange of cannon shots shortly after one o'clock but this lasted only a few moments.

The government forces were strongly reinforced in the night hours and the federal commander declared this morning he had almost 7000 men at his disposal.

A number of heavy guns were brought up by the federalists before dawn and posted in readiness for the expected action. The federal commander declared that he will win the battle decisively in a short time and claimed an enormous advantage both in position and strength of his troops.

GOVERNMENT FORCES DESTROYED CORNER OF ARSENAL OCCUPIED BY REBELS

LAREDO, Texas, Feb. 12.—A circular telegram transmitted to Monterey today by President Madero said that all day yesterday and last night the government forces bombarded the Cuernavaca and succeeded in destroying one corner of that arsenal occupied by rebel forces.

A passenger from Mexico City on last night's train reported that at least 1000 Americans were without funds to leave the capital even if the opportunity presented itself, as the banks were closed. A large number of Americans were at the station, he said, seeking to take northbound trains, but checks were refused as payment for tickets.

Many Americans, the passenger believed, were practically marooned at the station without food, shelter or money. He said railroad officials were doing everything they could to afford shelter to the women and children.

AMERICANS WARNED TO KEEP OUT OF THE DANGER ZONE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—Ambassador Wilson's overnight despatches were laid before President Taft today immediately on his return from Philadelphia. They contained principally an account of the most disquieting feature of the fighting in Mexico City—the killing of two American women yesterday. Administration officials look with much apprehension upon this incident and one of the first results was last night's order to Ambassador Wilson to warn all Americans out of the danger zone.

The president is keeping in constant touch with the situation from three points of view, from the diplomatic side which involves the actions of Ambassador Wilson in making representations to President Madero and from the military standpoint which involves determination of the question as to when if at all, he shall give the word for the entrainment of the first brigade of the first division of the reorganized army of regular troops which were ready for an immediate departure for the south.

AMBASSADOR WILSON ORDERED TO DRAW $10,000 TO PROTECT AMERICANS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—To protect Americans endangered in the firing in Mexico City Ambassador Wilson was ordered today to draw on the state department for $10,000. This could be used for relief of the destitute or for getting Americans out of Mexico.

Anti-American feeling at Acapulco culminated in an assault upon two officers of the cruiser Denver before she departed yesterday for Acapulco. Hon. Surgeon Cameron and Ensign Guthrie who were preparing through streets. Neither was injured.

Telegrams to the war department from the three posts in New York state where the regiments of the first army brigade are stationed, report that a body of about 3000 men in full equipment can be at Newport News within three hours after an order from the chief of staff.

It has been suggested to the president that it might be prudent to dispatch the first brigade to Vera Cruz at once even if the troops are to be kept aboard ship indefinitely as were the 1000 marines on the Panther which lay in San Domingo harbor for more than a month last summer, but because there is some fear that such a dispatching of a foreign military force in their ports even though not landed might inflame the Mexican public to acts of violence against Americans throughout the country, the authorities are hesitating to take such an action. Besides, it is held by some officials that the dispatch of a military expedition of this kind might be construed as an act of war and the president is determined to do nothing that could be regarded as an infringement of the constitutional privilege of congress in that respect.

Surprise Party

A very pleasant surprise party was given to Miss Elsie Kirkpatrick last evening at the home of her parents at 23 June street, Centralville. Miss Kirkpatrick who enters the General hospital in a few weeks to train, was the recipient of several valuable presents which showed the high esteem in which she is held by her friends. She was presented a fine traveling bag by Miss Marylet Maynard, a very beautiful shirt waist box, a large picture, and a large bouquet of American beauty roses were presented to her by Mr. James Harkins. She received a purse of money from her father.

Many games were played and solos were sung by Mr. Howard Cove and Mr. Lloyd Kirkpatrick. Miss Gale accompanied them on the piano. Miss Flossie Sleeper gave a rare imitation of a girl without a brain. Refreshments were served and at a late hour the friends took leave of Miss Kirkpatrick, wishing her success. The party was in charge of Mr. James Harkins, Mr. Fay Robinson and Mr. and Mrs. W. Fader and much of its success was due to their hard work.

Judge Hollister in the United States district court spent the entire morning in his charge to the jury, explaining all the counts in the indictment at length.

In his charge, Judge Hollister impressed on the jury the necessity of realizing that the Sherman law included the charge of attempting to monopolize as well as the actual monopolization. He also asked that the jury weigh carefully the testimony where there was reason for prejudice on the part of the witnesses.

DECISION OF IDAHO SUPREME COURT

Col. Roosevelt Returned to Subject in Address at New York Last Night

NEW YORK, Feb. 12.—Colonel Roosevelt last night returned to the subject of the decision of the supreme court of Idaho on the election cases, and again voiced the opinion that this decision constituted "an even graver offense against justice and decency, and an even greater blot on the American judiciary than the Dred Scott decision itself." The court, he characterized as "the most potent instrument in this land of justice."

"Abraham Lincoln was no less guilty than the three men whom the supreme court of the state of Idaho imprisoned for contempt because they criticized in less severe language than Lincoln, a decision as indefensible from every standpoint of law and justice and popular rights as the Dred Scott decision itself."

"Progressive Lincoln Day Banquet." Colonel Roosevelt spoke to the progressives at their Lincoln birthday banquet. The first political utterance he has made in months, his address was permeated with passages from Lincoln's writings and speeches. In Lincoln's words, he replied to the critics of the progressive party, likened republican leaders to "the old, exclusive, self-styled whiggery," when "opposed Lincoln before the civil war," and declared that the time had come for the people to act as the court of last resort. He said in part:

"At this moment there has occurred in Idaho a decision by the highest state court which, within its own limits, is an even graver offense against justice and decency and an even greater blot on the American judiciary than the Dred Scott decision itself. The reactionary supreme court of Idaho has played to the hands of the republican machine of which it was itself a party, precisely as Justice Taney and the majority of the supreme court of the nation in 1857 played into the hands of President Pierce and Buchanan and the reactionary organization of which he and they were parts.

Misconduct of Justice
"In Idaho the result was as grave a miscarriage of justice at the election as had already occurred at the nominating convention, and the court became the most potent instrument in this land of justice. This decision I hold to have been an outrage upon the people of Idaho, and not merely upon them, but upon the people of all the United States for any interference with the right of an American in any state to cast his vote and to have it counted for the president of his choice is an offense against the Americans of all the states."

"I think the result of the vote showed that if we had been given our clear and undoubted rights Idaho's electoral vote would have been in the progressive column. The action of the reactionary court taken in combination with the action of the republican machine, resulted in the deprivation of the right of the people of Idaho to express their choice for president."

Conspiracy Against Liberty
"Abraham Lincoln said that he believed the Dred Scott decision represented a conspiracy against liberty between the then supreme court and the leading officers of the reactionary party to which that supreme court belonged. I believe that with even more justice Abraham Lincoln if alive today would make the same statement about the action of the reactionary court of Idaho in connection with the reactionary leaders of the republican machine of Idaho."

"But the court did not stop here. There was in Idaho a newspaper which fearlessly and in entirely proper manner condemned the court for this outrage. The editor and publisher of that paper, and another man connected with them, have been thrown into jail and fined heavily for contempt by the court. The court in its opinion has cited the numerous dynamite outrages and the like that have occurred, as justifying their action. No more extraordinary

It was never made. I yield to no man in the horror I feel at the advertisements for all other criminals who do murder, whether by dynamite or in any other fashion.

"That the damage they do, though great, is by no means as great to the cause of law and order as is that done by a decision such as the decision in question, and no anarchist ever can or ever will hurt the courts as they are hurt by such action as that of the highest court of the state of Idaho. Remember that if the position of the Idaho court in publishing its critics for contempt is proper, then Abraham Lincoln should have been jailed and fined for his words about the supreme court of the United States in connection with the Dred Scott decision."

Abraham Lincoln was no more or less guilty than the three men whom the supreme court of the state of Idaho have imprisoned for contempt because they criticized, in less severe language than Abraham Lincoln, a decision as indefensible from every standpoint of law and justice and popular rights as the Dred Scott decision itself."

"A case like that in Idaho shows the need of the power of popular recall of the judiciary, a need which I believe could probably be best met by having the judges appointed or elected for life, but subject on petition to recall by popular vote every two years."

Many Improper Decisions
"This action would not, however, meet all the difficulties of the case. In this state, for instance, there have been many well-meaning judges who, in certain cases, usually affecting labor have rendered decisions which were wholly improper, wholly reactionary, and brought with the gravest injustice to three classes of the community standing most in need of justice. What is needed here is not the right to recall the judge, who in some one instance gives a mistaken and reactionary interpretation to his constitution, but the right of the people themselves to express after due deliberation their definite judgment as to what the constitution shall mean in the way of legislation for social and industrial justice."

"I hold that in such a case as the baker's case, in such a case as the workmen's compensation act, in such a case as the tenement house cigar factory act, in such a case as the act providing for the safeguarding of a dangerous machinery, in such a case as the eight-hour law, that it is for the people themselves to decide whether such a law is or is not to stand on the statute books. I do not care whether you call this action of theirs construing the constitution, or making the constitution. I care for the fact and not for the name."

Substituting the word "progressive" for "republican" in a letter written by Lincoln—the substitution being, Colonel Roosevelt said, only that the name of the progressive party of today for the progressive party of Lincoln's time—Colonel Roosevelt read the letter, as follows:

"As to the matter of fusion, I am for it if it can be had on (progressive) grounds; and I am not for it on any other terms. A fusion on any other terms would be as foolish as unprincipled. It would lose the whole (of what we have), while the common enemy would still carry (all the vote that is hostile to us). The question of men is a different one. There are good patriotic and able statesmen (in this territory) opposed to us whom I would cheerfully support if they would now place themselves on (progressive) grounds, but I am against letting down the (progressive) standard a hairs-breadth."

What Lincoln then said as to platform principles, means and methods, applies exactly to our attempts to fuse or amalgamate the progressives with any other party in our own days."

CAMEL DIED OF COLD

Drops Lifeless on Way to Theatre in Boston

BOSTON, Feb. 12.—Kiel Ayton, the venerable camel of the troupe now appearing with the "Garden of Allah" company at a local theatre, died of the cold on Tremont street yesterday afternoon while on his way to the theatre for the afternoon performance.

The blistering sun and the burning sands of Sahara are very different from chilling east winds and an underfoot as hard as flint and the change was too much for Kiel Ayton.

While passing the Hotel Touraine, shortly after 10 o'clock, the animal emitted a mournful wail, then sank slowly to his knees and rolled over—dead.

Last night officials of the Harvard natural history department telephoned for the body of the camel.

The body will be delivered to them today. The skin will be stuffed and placed in the exhibition rooms.

LECTURE ON JAPAN

Interesting Address by Miss Julia Stevens at People's Club Last Night—Series of Lectures to Be Given

A series of lectures, one to be given each Wednesday evening, made possible through a fund given for this purpose by Col. James Francis, was started last night at the People's club rooms in Runkle hall. The lecturer here was Miss Julia Stevens. The subject was "Japan," and the lecture was built up about a charming series of pictures which Miss Stevens collected on her trip to the Asian country. The pictures covered practically the whole Japanese life, customs, religion, holidays and even the possible phase of life, and the lecture proved very interesting.

Aged Woman Blown Out of Bed
LYNNBURG, Va., Feb. 12.—Although Mrs. George M. Jones, a wealthy woman 80 years old, was blown out of her bed by a dynamite explosion which wrecked her home, the shock did no harm. The police say it was an attempt at murder.

HOW THIN PEOPLE MAY PUT ON FLESH

Great Discovery by Eminent Specialist

Judging from the countless preparations and treatments which are continually being advertised for the purpose of making thin people fleshy, it is surprising to find that the only one who is actually making thin people fat and replacing ugly bones and muscles by the soft curved lines of health and beauty, there are evidently thousands of men and women who do not feel their excessive thinness, and it therefore gives us real pleasure to publish here, with a simple prescription which, by correcting drugs, metabolism, and stimulating the activity of certain sluggish vital organs, quickly produces a marvelous transformation in the appearance of thin people, and frequently averaging from 1 to 5 pounds in the first week, and very rarely less than 2. This increase in weight also carries with it a general improvement in the health. Catarrh, dyspepsia and nervousness, which nearly always accompany excessive thinness, all gradually disappear, dull eyes become bright and pale cheeks glow with a bloom of perfect health.

The prescription, which contains no dangerous drugs, is absolutely harmless, calls for 2 oz. Thicture (Carbom's Compound), 2 oz. Fluid of Sulfate, 2 oz. Mixture of Calcium and enough water to fill an 8-oz. bottle, and can readily be prepared by any druggist. One or two tablespoonfuls should be taken 20 minutes before each meal. Eat all you want but chew your food thoroughly.

CAUTION: Although the above prescription is unequalled for relieving chronic indigestion and catarrh of the stomach, it should not be used for a remarkable flesh growing property, he used by anyone who does not desire to put on flesh.

$1000 FOR FALSE ARREST

Negro Sued Former Theatre Managers

BOSTON, Feb. 12.—Alexander R. Armstrong, colored, was yesterday awarded the sum of $1000 by a jury in the sixth jury session for false arrest and malicious prosecution in his suit against Messrs. Stur, Wilbur and Nager, former lessees of the Grand Opera house, on Washington street. He sued for that amount.

Armstrong claimed that he went to the theatre and purchased a 50-cent ticket in the balcony. When he entered he gave the seat check to the usher, who failed to seat him. After the show had opened he dropped into a seat, poorer than the one called for by his ticket. He was later asked to get up and out, as he had no check for the seat. He demurred and asked for the chief usher or manager. The first thing he knew, he said, was when he saw a special officer come up and put a pair of twisters on him. He was then taken from the theatre and arraigned in court the next morning charged with disturbing an assembly. On this charge he was found not guilty.

In the recent decision a jury is considering the evidence in a suit brought by William W. Bryant, colored, against Rich's grill corporation for alleged discrimination on account of color.

He claims that with a friend he was refused a glass of beer.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

Lowell Opera House

"A Woman's Way," the brilliant comedy by Thompson Buchanan that is being presented at the Opera House this week by the Longman Players continues to draw a large and enthusiastic audience at each performance and Mr. Longman and his clever company of players are daily adding new friends and admirers by the excellent performance being given of this play. "A Woman's Way" will be presented every afternoon and evening this week and for the second week of this company's appearance here. The "Man From Home" will be the bill.

As everybody knows, Daniel Voorhees like all other politicians, can't keep his mouth shut. The angular Hoosier whose performance at the "Man From Home" has helped to make the "Man From Home" the holder of as big a collection of success-records in the shape of long big-city runs, and enormous small-city chalked up to his credit. practically doubled its population since the play was first produced. In the hands of the Longman Players "The Man From Home" should be a potent attraction. Seats for all performances are now on sale.

Kelth's Theatre

Brush Ling Toy, deliver later Chinese magic, and make other mysterious happenings, has every body guessing this week at Kelth's theatre. The sedan chair and cabinet tracks, the levitation mystery and a half dozen other strange things are maneuvered by the magician in quick order. Probably no other worker in this medium has done so many things in so brief a space of time. George Richards, in the comedy, "Easy Money" and Bert Fitzgibbon, the funniest of them all, are others who are sure to win much applause. La Deodante, the young Venus; Kimball & Donovan, comedians; Reisser & Gores, comedians; Allen & Laurie, funsters, and Jean Ward, singer are the other good acts on this thoroughly likeable bill. Good seats may be obtained for all performances during the remainder of the week. Phone 25.

Merriam Square Theatre

The entertainment provided at the Merriam Square theatre this week should have been called Gypsy Week for with The Temple Players presenting "Nita, the Gypsy," a gypsy atmosphere is created that seems to catch hold of the large audiences in attendance there. Of course there are other acts of merit on the bill this week but despite this fact there's an indescribable something which prevails about the theatre this week that suggests the spring time, with its birds and flowers and romping boys and girls singing love songs. The many bright novelties, the quaint songs and the Gypsy Apache dance all go to make one of the most refreshing entertainments seen on a local stage this winter. Even the photo plays are a little above the average, there being a complete change today.

The Playhouse

No piece has given such genuine satisfaction to the patrons of the Playhouse than this week's presentation of Alexander Dumas' great French play, "Camille." The fact that many of those who witnessed a performance earlier in the week intend seeing it again testifies not only to the real merit of the piece itself but also to the excellent work of those engaged in the cast. Miss Jackson is especially good as "Camille" while Mr. Smyth handles the character of the young lover in a manner that brings him merited recognition. The staging of the play is most artistic. Next week, "Mrs. Warren's Profession."

The Kasino

There is a man who came to the Kasino a few months ago, weighing 247 pounds. Today he weighs 205 and he says he never felt better in his life. Skating with take off superfluous weight in a normal, healthful way. Don't come to the Kasino if you are training for admission to the Fat Man's Club.

MERE BABIES AT WORK

1259 Toil in Canning Sheds—Oldest 14

ALBANY, N. Y., Feb. 12.—How children of tender years slave for hours in canning sheds with their blistered fingers wrapped in rags; how they labor in tenements making toys, flowers and plumes, and how women toil excessively, sometimes for mere pittance, in industrial establishments in this state, is graphically described in a report of the New York state factory investigating commission which was submitted to the legislature yesterday.

Not Enforced

The report says that the canners operating in the rural districts have never obeyed the state child labor law "because they never have to. They have contended that their 'sheds' in which the children snip beans and husk corn are not 'factories,' and that under certain conditions the employment of children less than 14 years of age in these 'sheds' is legal."

The employment of mere babies, the commission holds, has been the result, and it adds that of 1259 children found at work in 33 sheds the oldest was 14 years old and the youngest was three.

Many of the canners, the report explains, are opposed to the employment of children and half of them do not resort to it, but "as the canning industry is largely devoted to the exploitation of foreigners, the parents

TALE OF ROUGH VOYAGE

Meridian Leaking and Short of Coal

NEWPORT NEWS, Va., Feb. 12.—Leaking, short of coal and with her steering gear badly damaged, the British steamer Meridian, which is en route from Shields to Nipe Bay, Cuba, put into port here yesterday in distress, bringing a tale of one of the roughest voyages ever experienced by her officers.

The ship was 30 days making the trip usually made in from 12 to 18 days, and she had barely enough coal in her bunkers to reach port.

Captain Stevenson reports encountering high winds and mountainous seas for days. A big sea broke over the stern, crushing in the wheelhouse and smashing the steering wheel.

The leaking condition of the ship is thought to have been due to striking some submerged object. The Meridian will be docked at the local ship yard for a survey.

NAME CABINET MARCH 4

Nothing Public Until Then Says Wilson

PRINCETON, N. J., Feb. 12.—President-elect Wilson announced definitely last night that he would not make public the names of his cabinet until he sent them to the senate for confirmation on March 4.

"I will follow the good old-fashioned method," he said, "and not make any announcement until the names of the cabinet members are sent to the senate."

Mr. Wilson's remarks were occasioned by the publication of reports from Washington that he would announce his cabinet today. He said there was absolutely no truth or authority for the reports.

Mr. Wilson, it is indicated, will ask the men to whom portfolios are offered to regard the information as confidential. He believes also it is said, that he ought not to make any important announcement until he is actually president of the United States.

The governor received in silence the information that he had been officially elected president of the United States through blotting in the house of representatives yesterday. He said he had been working hard in his study all day, examining papers and documents which had been accumulating ever since his nomination. He heard further press reports of the Mexican situation, but offered no comment.

Accusing Fingers Point to Coffee

Last year the Government Health Office, by authority of the District of Columbia, issued an appeal to parents, asking them not to allow their children to drink coffee or tea.

They noticed that the children who drank coffee were nervous and didn't get along in their studies, and were not healthy looking.

And those who did not drink coffee or tea, were, as a rule, strong and vigorous and got along well in their studies.

It isn't so much what Doctors, Government, Nurses or the School Teachers of the country are saying about coffee, as

HOW DOES COFFEE TREAT YOU?

Every coffee drinker who is afflicted with nervousness, sleeplessness, heart irritation, indigestion or biliousness (and most of them are) should consider that

A cup of coffee contains about 2 1-2 grains of caffeine—a poison. Hence the various troubles from coffee drinking.

INSTANT POSTUM

is taking the place of coffee in thousands of homes where health is valued.

This new food-drink, made of prime Northern Wheat and the juice of Southern Sugar Cane, tastes much like high-grade Java but is absolutely pure and free from caffeine.

REQUIRES NO BOILING

Place a spoonful of the powder in a cup, pour on boiling water, stir and add sugar and cream to taste; and instantly you have a delightful drink of charming flavor.

Grocers sell Instant Postum—15 to 50-cup Tin 30c; 20 to 100-cup Tin 50c.

VAGABOND BILL NOW STATE LAW

Pickpockets May be Locked Up if Acting Suspiciously—Gov. Foss Signed Many Bills

BOSTON, Feb. 12.—Governor Foss broke all records yesterday in the number of bills which he signed. There were 30 of them embracing many kinds of appropriations and several of the most important social bills in the legislature. One of them was the new vagabond bill which will enable a police officer to grab a pickpocket or a thief even if the person is only acting suspiciously in a public place. It is no longer necessary to prove that the person has no visible means of livelihood.

To Define Leper

Another measure is the leprosy bill which gives the state board of charity the right to detain as long as it may seem necessary a person suspected of having leprosy.

A third measure straightens out the tangle in the town of Mattapoisett caused by the forgetfulness of the town council as to whether he had properly posted a certain notice of a town meeting at which a vote was taken to establish a new water system. The acts of the town are now valid.

Prize Initiative

The initiative and referendum was favored yesterday by Professor Lewis H. Johnson of Harvard, George Fred

JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER, JR., AND ASSOCIATES INVESTIGATE SOCIAL EVIL

In approaching the problem of the social evil, with its allied wrongs and crimes, from a scientific standpoint John D. Rockefeller, Jr., and his associates are applying the principle that in no branch of human endeavor can anything be accomplished unless the underlying facts are learned and mastered. With this end in view they have established the bureau of social hygiene. Their views and aims are laid before the public in a circular recently issued.

The promotion of the social health of the world through the diminution of the lowest possible dimensions of the terrible evil of the fallen woman is the first objective of the bureau of social hygiene. There are no limits to the future ramifications of its work. It aims to lay the ax at the trunk of all preventable evil when the root system is disclosed by extensive delving. With that end in view it will study the social sister not only as a maulfactor, but as the victim of economic and social wrongs. Its spirit is scientific and its work will be thorough. As essential products of its work will come reports on everything that produces the fallen woman as well as everything and everybody that batten on her misfortune and her slavery. "White slavery" and the black and yellow slave, most abhorrent of human creatures, will receive consideration.

The statement issued by the bureau says: "In order to make a real and lasting improvement in conditions a permanent organization should be created, to make continuous warfare, generation after generation, against the forces of evil. As the initial step in the winter of Williams, Henry Sterling and others. Mr. Williams said that corruption in the legislature is now stronger, although more subtle, than ever.

Welfare of Aliens

The proposed investigation of the status of immigrants and aliens in Massachusetts was favored by a big delegation which came before the committee on social welfare yesterday.

Miss Frances Keller, secretary of the special commission which made similar investigations in New York, said that Boston conditions were not far different from New York conditions. She said that the immigrant who comes into contact with the padrone system lives in a barn and gets his water from a frog pond and will not have much respect for American institutions. She said there were several immigrant hotels in Boston which had been notorious offenders against the law.

Bernard J. Rothwell of the chamber of commerce said that uprisings such as had recently taken place in Massachusetts might have been prevented had the underlying causes been understood.

Professor Emily G. Balch of Wellesley said that the Lawrence conditions were typical of every big industrial centre.

Women Urge Bill

One of the biggest delegations of women that ever came to the state house appeared before the committee on federal relations yesterday to urge the passage of the resolutions that Massachusetts join in the calling for a United States constitutional convention to prohibit polygamy and polygamous relationship.

In favor of the bill were Mrs. Katherine L. Stevenson, representing the W. C. T. U.; Mrs. George W. Coleman, president of the Massachusetts Council for Patriotic Service; the Rev. Lucius H. Dugbee of Malden; Mrs. Ruby P. Clark of the industrial department of the Federation of Women's Clubs.

Labor Bills Opposed

Opposition to various labor measures was heard by the committee on judiciary yesterday. Chairman Carroll of the Industrial Accident Board stated that under the compensation act injured employees are now receiving five times more than they ever got before. From $9 to $45 per cent of the claims adjusted would have got nothing under the old law.

Arthur Clark of Boston, representing the employers' association, was opposed to the picketing and injunction bills. Nathan Matthews, B. F. Clark of the metal workers and F. S. Clark of the metal trades opposed changes in the workingmen's compensation act.

Western Trolley Bill

Joseph B. Eastman of the Public Franchise league opposed the western trolley bill before the committee on street railways yesterday afternoon. This is the bill vetoed last year by Governor Foss.

Mr. Eastman wanted the Springfield lines taken away from the New Haven. He could see no reason why the state should not give $5,000,000 for the development of these lines as well as give $9,999,999 to the port of Boston.

Restrictions on Columbus Day

A report against the petitions of Benjamin F. Alling upon religious matters was made yesterday by the committee on legal affairs. The bills provide that Oct. 19 shall be a legal holiday, known as Yorktown day, that religious organizations shall not parade in the streets for sectarian purposes, that there shall be no organizations designed to promote the interests of particular races, religions or sects.

New Drunk Bill

A new drunk bill reported yesterday by legal affairs gives a judge the right to fine or imprison a third time convict for drunkenness. Under the present law the court has no discretion except to jail or acquit.

FARMERS OPPOSE ELLIS BILL

And Favor the Bacteria Test for Pure Milk—Able Address of Dr. Bolling

A Dairymen's Institute was held yesterday in North Tewksbury under the auspices of the state dairy bureau of which George W. Trull of Tewksbury is a member. The meeting was largely attended and was presided over by Mr. Trull, while the speakers were Dr. George E. Bolling, chairman of the Associated Boards of Health, P. M. Harwood, agent of the state dairy bureau.

Previous to the meeting the guests were taken on a tour of inspection of the flood farm, and then they repaired to the vestry of the Baptist church, where the addresses were given.

The first speaker called was Dr. Bolling, who spoke in part as follows:

"The state board of agriculture asked me to come here today and talk on the milk bills now pending before the legislature, and especially the bacteria bill. The first milk laws passed in this state were against adding water and against skimming. Such things, of course, were done with criminal intent, and were so treated. Then came a law establishing a standard of solids and fats. It is a good statute, although I am not fully in sympathy with it. I believe that all natural milk should be sold in the state if it is pure, for there is much of such milk that is below the required standard.

"We heard very little about bacteria in milk until about 10 years ago. Then came the study of the effects of milk upon infants and the discovery that the presence of a million bacteria to a cubic centimeter was a danger to the child's life. Now bacteria was first mentioned in B. C. 40, but the writer who described it is believed to have been a romancer, although he guessed correctly. It was 1700 years later before a living organism was discovered in a drop of water, and it divided the doctors and scientists into two camps of a controversy that was not scientifically settled until the experiments of Pasteur were made public in our own time.

"A cubic centimeter is about a quarter of a teaspoon, and while a million bacteria seems like an enormous number, it is well to know that a billion would weigh only one seven-hundredth of the quantity of milk in which it was found. Nevertheless, pure milk must contain a comparatively small amount of bacteria, and that is what the bill that we favor is based upon.

"Personally, I favor it because for seven years it has been our own standard in the city of Brockton, and the bill is based upon our experience there. We examine a dairymen's supply at intervals for a year, then average the samples, and publish the result. Those who stand at the top even have their pictures printed, and of course it is a great recommendation for a milk dealer.

"Cement floors and brass railings are not necessary to produce clean milk. The farmer who has stood at the head of our list for seven years and who has only 30,000 bacteria in his milk, keeps his cows in an ordinary New England barn, built many years ago. But cleanliness and the prompt cooling of his milk have given him his success.

"A limit of 500,000 bacteria is a fair basis, and is made the standard of requirement in the pending bill, but in Brockton the ordinary clean milk will not average over 50,000.

GEORGE W. TRULL
Who Presided

At the Massachusetts agricultural college, milk has been produced that was sent to Europe and back without turning sour. It was kept airtight and of course was produced with a very low rate of bacteria.

"There is no danger of feeding bacteria into the cow, nor is it obtained from stagnant water. Indeed, there is less bacteria in a sewer than in dirty milk, though the germs found in the former are much more deadly. Bacteria will grow just above the freezing point if milk is left standing long enough, but for practical purposes it does not increase at a temperature of 40, and so the bill now pending provides that samples taken from milk dealers may be kept for 10 hours at that temperature, for there will be no increase within that time.

"There are 11 or 12 milk bills before the legislature, but only two are worthy of discussion. The Ellis bill is up for the third year; the bacteria test bill has just been introduced. The Ellis bill was described recently as more objectionable for what it doesn't say than what it does. Many of us are a little fearful of how it may work out. The chief drafter of the measure is a professor in the Harvard Medical school, and he published a book last year on how to produce clean milk.

"The professor in opposing our bill this week said that the bacteria test was only a grain of sand in the matter of pure milk," continued Dr. Bolling. "It seems to us that it is the most important thing, but if it is only a grain in the Ellis bill, you can see where the dairymen will get off if it ever becomes a law.

"In Brockton a few years ago we had a high infant mortality. We found which milkmen were selling clean milk and when a child was born we sent the parents a circular, advising them to buy milk from these dealers, and also telling them how to care for milk in the home. By means of that circular alone we reduced the infant death rate from 104 to 80 a thousand.

"The penalty in the proposed law is not imposed upon the first offense. A warning is sent to the dairymen, and he is told how to make clean milk. If the two samples taken after this are both below the standard, he is summoned into court and may be fined a maximum of $50. There are a dozen cities of the state that already have the bacteria test, and they treat offenders less leniently than does the bill. The unfairness of prosecuting on one sample is shown by an illustration in Brockton. A man whose milk had been remarkably clean one day showed the presence of over four million in the sample taken. Of course, there had been some accident upon that day, resulting in the contamination of his milk, and I would have been notoriously unfair to prosecute him when on the following day the milk showed but a few thousand. The bill aims to be educational. We want clean milk rather than the prosecution of the dairymen, and the measure affords equal protection to the producer and the consumer.

Mr. Harwood in his address gave a very interesting account of the recent conference held in New York for the purpose of securing uniform state laws governing milk, and he also attacked the Ellis bill.

FRATERNITIES ARE BUSY

EDUCATION

Frederick H. Hamilton, D. D., former president of Tufts college, in his lecture in the Unitarian church on "Some fundamental conceptions of Education," gave in a condensed form a splendid exposition of the aims of true education in the modern sense.

One of the most vital facts of his discourse—and one frequently overlooked by both teachers and parents—was that "the acquisition of facts is not education." This would have sounded like rank heresy to the educators of the past who looked upon the schools as a storehouse of facts from which the child was to draw until his mind was stocked. Even today this viewpoint has not altogether changed. We have seen cases where people, testing the education of a boy or girl, have asked question after question of an encyclopaedic character in which there was no relation one to the other and no test of the reasoning powers. We are all familiar with the type of man who can tell the height of the highest mountain, the date of the important battle of the world, the distance of the earth from the sun, the weight and density of the atmosphere, and such illuminating facts. The ability to store up abstract facts does not necessarily mark a man out as educated. Simple people may gaze in open-mouthed wonder "that one small head can carry all he knew," but he is frequently regarded as a bore by people who are educated in the true sense of the word. A mere parrot-like mouthing of facts or figures has no connection with true education. We have seen cases where children when learning fractions or interest, could do difficult problems when the school formulas were used, but could not understand what was required when the problem was put in a slightly different form, because they had acquired routine methods without understanding them in the least.

True education, according to Dr. Hamilton, consists mainly in the teaching of the young to observe, to compare, and to give expression to thought. In other words it is simply a means of preparing him to educate himself in the years that follow his school life. The best educated young man is not the one who has the greatest store of facts leaving school, but he who is best fitted to learn most from the opportunities and experiences of life, he who can use the powers that are latent in the young awaiting development, the power to observe, to compare, to give his thought proper expression, whether by brush, pen, compass, or lance. The teaching of many things in the schools may not seem to fit directly under any of these heads, but there are side issues such as culture, moral training, and intellectual power, each of which is of the utmost importance and which fit into the scheme of education in relation to these three primary objects.

THE INDIVIDUAL VS. SOCIETY

In "Locksley Hall" one of Tennyson's strongest poems, he sums up the views of a theorist who dwells on the achievements and promises of human endeavor only to find disillusion. Through verse after verse he reasons out a line of selfish philosophy, and gives the result as follows:

"Knowledge comes but wisdom lingers,
And the individual blossoms,
And the world grows more and more."

In dwelling on the evils of divorce we frequently overlook this great truth, that society as a whole is of more importance than the wellbeing of the individual. People who argue in favor of divorce quote examples where it would seem to be justified. The records of divorce courts also furnish cases where such action seems to be almost absolutely necessary, but in these cases we are dwelling on the individual. It is when we take our eyes from these examples and look upon society as it is constituted, when we dwell on the sanctity of home ties and the necessity of the warp and woof of family life in the fabric of society, we realize that the interests of humanity as a whole outweigh those of the individual.

Divorce is rapidly becoming the greatest menace to the happiness and stability of society in this country. Day after day the wheels of the divorce mills revolve and grind out their grist of hideous marital wrecks. Before these tribunals all the wreckage of home ties and family life is laid bare with a sickening vividness. How often do we see the most sacred and binding obligations regarded lightly, and marriages contracted and dissolved at the whim and caprice of the contracting parties. These things make of our laws a laughing stock and expose us to shame before the nations where common decency is not so much violated. There are cases where to avoid divorce means suffering for the individual. But is this true of every phase of existence? There is no law that in its fulfillment does not impose unwelcome obligations on some individual or some class. Laws are made for the protection of society as a whole, and the protection of the individual in relation to that society. There should be no law for the individual that would be detrimental to mankind in general. When such a law exists it is against the principles of the very basis on which human society rests.

From all over America a voice of warning is issued regarding our divorce laws. They are rapidly undermining our national life. A greater issue is at stake than the settlement of an occasional grievance, and the common sense of an awakened public must face the situation calmly, and set about the discovery of a remedy for the wrongs caused by unwise legislation.

SCOTT'S LAST APPEAL

When we view the great events that are stirring around us, and read the names of men connected with gallant achievements and stupendous enterprises, we usually regard them in their relation to these achievements merely. They become abstract things unrelated to all the ties of home and kindred, that throw a certain tenderness round the names of the most rugged.

The last appeal of Captain Scott, the daring explorer of the South pole, does more to touch our sensibilities and wake our better feelings than all the glory of his unrequited triumph. Facing death in the blizzard-swept wastes of the ice fields, surrounded by the dead bodies of his comrades, he shows his fears at his impending fate nor regrets for his unrequited triumph. His last thoughts were with his wife and the child that he had never seen. With frozen fingers he made his last message an appeal for them, and for those also who were left by the gallant comrades who lay dead or dying around him. "Surely, surely," he wrote, "a great rich country like ours will see that those who depend upon us are properly provided for."

There can be no doubt that his appeal will be religiously heeded in England. His expedition had a national rather than a private aspect, and the relatives will be looked upon as national charges. There is a certain gratification thus, sadly gained in the fact that even today, the strongest ties of all, stronger than the desire for fame and wealth, are the family ties of human love.

THE WIDENER LIBRARY

Work has just begun on the new million dollar library to be erected at Harvard by Mrs. George D. Widener of Philadelphia as a memorial to her son, who was lost with the Titanic. A memorial such as this shows a very discriminating spirit on the part of the relatives. It will have all the advantages of architectural beauty and as such will be as fitting a tribute to the memory of Harry Elving Widener as would be "storied urn or animated bust." It will have the additional advantage of linking the name of the dead with an institution that will be a great power for good and a benefit to thousands of students through the coming years. When the ocean tragedy will have become dimmed by time this library will keep the memory of one of the victims fresh, and not only his memory but that of his mother, who, in devoting the library as a memorial to him, sets an example of unselfish love that will have a noble influence on the minds and hearts of coming generations.

AT THE CLUB

Do you know, Joe, that a liberal education is a great thing, but it is almost absolutely worthless if the possessor is unable after completing his course at an institution of learning, to get out and earn a living for himself? This kind of talk, Bill, who was engaged in a friendly chat with his friend Joe at the club the other afternoon. Unusual for the latter, on this occasion he was an interested listener and did not appear bored at the meditations of the other. On subjects pertaining to education and its relation to the future of the young man, Joe was especially keen.

"I agree with you, of course, but have you any particular case, and if so, what is it?" he asked.
"I certainly have a particular case and I will tell you of it with-out mentioning any names and as briefly as possible. The other day a bright appearing young fellow blew into our office and asked for a job. He said he was a graduate of a college and wanted a position with an opportunity for advancement. As that is just the kind of young men we are looking for, I decided to give him an opportunity. I was impressed with his air and earnest appearance. I learned the great lesson that appearances in many cases are deceptive. The young fellow, I shall call Charlie, came to work the following day, and pestered the life out of everybody within reach with his fire of questions about what he would do with this and how dispose of that and so on, until he became unbearable to the others, and then I took a hand and gave him some work that set him aside from the others. His questions were not intelligent ones which would cause one to admire his ambition to learn as much as possible about the business, but on the contrary they were regarding the simplest matters that even a graduate school boy would be expected to understand. He seemed to be entirely lacking in backbone and confidence in himself and had to rely on others to tell him how to do every little thing required of him. I still paused for a moment reflectively.

"And then what?" inquired Joe with interest.
"And then I finally had to take him into my office, hand him two weeks' salary and in plain language, send him out, however, until I had explained to him as clearly as possible what the matter was. I told him that it was not what we required in this business and that what we needed was a man who could take hold and do things for himself without bothering the others about the simplest matters imaginable. He seemed to understand and I do not know whether or not he benefited by the little lecture which I gave him, for he left my office in an unconcerned manner as though to say 'very well, I'll go to someone else.' There is a fellow with a college education that I'm afraid will never make a success in life. And he is only one of many for I have seen many such in my travels, many of whom are now men and absolute failures, having gotten themselves into a rut and remained there without the strength and ambition to pull themselves out."
"I see what you are getting at," replied Joe, "and I agree with you fully. It is not so much what a fellow knows in colleges that counts, but it is the training of intellect to think quickly and accurately that is the real object of his education; the training of his mind to learn quickly and the acquiring of the ability to depend on his own efforts. Your man evidently lacked all that and so he began his failure. He was not a man who had not learned to use his hands in conjunction with his mind."

them will probably be lugged off as someone, and it is to be feared that is about all the use that will be made of them. This does not mean that there will not be many good people in Washington at the time, but they are not going there to read the bible.

Public Safety

Brockton Times: The train control board's report to the interstate commerce commission, recommending compulsory adoption of the block signal system by all interstate railroads, makes a good beginning for a public safety movement, but why not go further. Block signals do not eliminate the dangerous crossings and weak bridges. What many railroads need is more rigid inspection, enforced by something stronger than the company's own volition.

Diaz and Mexico

Pail River Herald: There is little doubt that ex-President Diaz has kept a sensitive finger on the trend of political affairs in Mexico, although sojourning at present in Europe. He ruled so long and helped too many men to comfortable fortunes to be without influential friends in the republic today. They, as much as any one, probably are responsible for the revolts and disorders. The same situation would exist with any other man except Diaz in the executive's office, and he has enough enemies to make any attempt on his part to again assume the reins of government extremely hazardous. Mexico thus is torn between two fires. What the outcome will be if the United States refuse to intervene, is problematical. The outlook at best, judged by the latest reports, is far from bright.

The New View

Johnston Democrat: It is only recently that it was discovered that government was a matter of business. For nearly a century everybody in this country took the view that government was wholly partisan; that offices were for the use of office seekers who might have jobs. It was only recently that it was discovered that government was a matter of principle. There have been various schools that have taken this view of it, and today there is a very sharp distinction between those who stand for "government by the people" and those who contend in behalf of government "by a representative part of the people."

A Cleaner Reno

Boston Post: The reputation of Reno, the Nevada "divorce city," is not of the sweetest, but there are living in it as many good and noble women as are found in any city of its size, and they are doing their best to clean up their city and state. To this end they have started an anti-divorce crusade with the purpose of making the period of residence for applicants one year instead of six months. A recommendation for the change was made recently in the governor's message to the legislature. One branch of the legislature has already passed a bill in accordance.

in Nevada before a divorce could be obtained, the Reno colonists from other states would naturally divide. That would not be complete reform, but it would be far better than the present unwholesome state of affairs, and Nevada ought to recognize that it would really pay in the end, for there is no doubt that her Reno reputation keeps settlers and money away from her.

George Bernard Shaw
New Bedford Times: London debating societies are interesting the world of an eminent man of letters by discussing the question, "Is Shaw overrated?" Are they so dense or unappreciative as to be in doubt as to the place in the literary world that has been won by him who wears lachrymose whiskers? After all these years would they call his greatness into question or bedim him lustre by demanding proof of his intellectual prowess?

And what an absurd way of determining his worth, the every-day method of debate! Why not settle the question instantly, for all time and beyond further doubt? Ask Shaw himself. He knows he is not overrated.

AN ENJOYABLE EVENING
Pawtucket Brotherhood
Held Ladies' Night

The Pawtucket Brotherhood of the Pawtucket church held its annual ladies' night at the church last evening and the affair was very largely attended. A reception was held followed by a beautiful repast and speeches, as well as an entertainment program.

The guests gathered in the vestry of the church at 7.30 and until 8 o'clock an informal reception was held, at the conclusion of which all sat down to an appetizing meal. Over 125 people were present and at the head table were the officers of the organization and the speakers. During the repast excellent music was supplied by a trio of musicians composed of Leo Blasonette, Richard Mason and Joseph Perkins.

The toastmaster of the evening was President Arthur A. Stewart, and he kept things moving in a happy manner. The program carried out was as follows: Bass solo, Guy Johnson; accompanied by Carl Mason; toast, "The Ladies," Harold Varnum, Esq., toast, "Our Country," Captain William Porter, White, U. S. N., retired; toast, "Abraham Lincoln," Rev. A. C. Ferrin; address of the evening, "The World Moves," Rev. C. H. Williams of North Billerica; stories and recitation, Alvah Burgess; toasts, "Our Brotherhood," Rev. N. O. Allen.

The banquet which had charge of the observance consisted of Prof. Stewart, chairman; Harold Varnum, George Vance, Frank R. Hoy, Fred B. Harris, Russell Armstrong, Lorenzo Ayer, J. B. V. Coburn, A. Field and J. Field. Mrs. Calder had charge of the supper.

When making garments for a bazaar roll the scraps that are left from the material into a neat little bundle and fasten this to the garment with a few stitches. The pieces will be appreciated by the one who buys in case patching or mending is needed later.

Fruit Cookies
Fruit cookies made in the following way are sure to prove favorites in most families: Beat to a cream one cupful of sugar and one-half cupful of shortening. Add one-half cupful of sweet milk, one beaten egg, two and one-half cupfuls of flour and three level teaspoonfuls of baking powder. Filling three-fourths cupful of sugar, one cupful of boiling water, one cupful chopped raisins or figs. Cook until thick. Roll cookies very, very thin. Place teaspoonful of filling on, cut out cookie and place another cookie on top. Press the edges lightly together.

The 2 Great Essentials of Food

1st: Taste No matter how nourishing a food may be it must taste good. If it doesn't, it won't coax the digestive juices into action; and if it doesn't do that the nourishment in the food will pass through the body unassimilated.

2nd: Cooking No matter how nourishing a food may be, if it requires cooking it must be properly cooked. Cooking brings about chemical changes, without the aid of which the digestive juices cannot perform their task.

"Jake" Cullen, captain-elect of the High school football team for next season, is one of the best tacklers that the High school team has produced in recent years. "Jake's" main quality is his aggressiveness, which is always with him until the final whistle blows. On both offensive as well as defensive work the 1913 captain is always in the play and should prove an ideal leader for next season's team.

Thorpe will have some difficulty in winning the majority of the events in the professional all-around championships which will be held at Mechanics hall this month, although he will undoubtedly win the championship on points scored. Lawson Robertson is a sprinter who can beat Thorpe if he is in shape and he should be at the time of the meeting. There are also several other "pros" who will give the amateur a stiff tussle in many of the listed events. If Thorpe takes things too easy he may be beaten at that for the going in each contest will be worth the price of admission. One of the athletes has a bad habit of underestimating an opponent. I was competing in a meet where Thorpe started jumping at 6 feet 6 inches and refused to take off his sweater. He failed the first two tries and when Glen Warner advised him to discard the sweater, he simply smiled in his good natured way. However, on his third trial he again failed and was disqualified from an event which he could have won handily. If the Indian carries out these tactics in the approaching meet he is liable to be beaten.

Dr. Fordyce Coburn has returned from his southern trip and appeared at the High school annex yesterday to take charge of the boys' track work. Not many of the High school athletes were present yesterday, however, as the majority of them were up to the Country club to the hockey game between the High school team and Textile. Capt. Bailey received a bad fall on one of the turns and will probably be laid up for a few days, although fortunately no serious damage was done.

Three new marks were yesterday's contribution to the American column of records. Hannan Kolenstien, who took the 100 yard dash in 15.2 seconds, broke the indoor record for three miles over in Brooklyn and then came back at the N. Y. A. C. meet at Madison Square gardens in the 100 yard dash, pulled his own record in the five-mile event by nearly 20 seconds. Such a performance has never been recorded before in the history of American distance running. He did not feel, though admitting that he did not feel in the best of shape, went after the five-mile mark from the crack of the gun and finished with a magnificent spurt in the remarkable time of 24:29.1-5.

Oscar Hedlund, the B. A. A. crack, also showed the New Yorkers how fast the mile could be stepped over a board track and incidentally bettering his own mark by a full second. His time was 4:15.4-6. Hedlund sprang a big surprise on the critics by defeating Norman Tabor, the Brown university miler, in this event.

The track meet next Saturday night between the local boys and M. I. T. freshmen should prove a great drawing card. The Tech team includes stars of various prep schools, some who have competed here before. This team is not in the same class as the High school team and if it were not for the fact that the local track is a hard one to travel over for strangers the Lowell boys would not have a chance. As it stands, however, the meet should be a pretty even thing with the odds slightly in favor of the home team.

The South End club should have a very good basketball team with men like Joe Foley in its lineup. Foley was caging the ball with the best of them a few seasons ago and from all appearances he has not "gone back" to any great extent. With this player as a foundation the club will find small difficulty in building strong offensive as well as defensive team.

As predicted in this column the high school hockey team proved the stronger aggregation when they met the team from Textile school yesterday afternoon. "Speed" Carter and Larkin Trull proved to be too fast for the Textile defence and the lone goal that Carter caged on a pass from Trull was enough to decide the contest.

Bad spills and injuries have been encountered by several of the high school track athletes in the past week. Bailey, Quinn, Haggerty, Berry and Exley are all recipients of bruises and scratches received while taking the corners. These corners are a highly treacherous proposition and proved a hoodoo for many a prospective winner. If instead of four corners a combination bank was used at each end of the hall the danger of falls would be practically eliminated and faster time could be made in the different events.

A good player ought to make about $3500 a year, an exceptionally good one more—up to from $5000 to $7000 or $8000—after he becomes a star. There are many frugal ball players, and McAlleer's figures must be based upon the ability of these fellows to save two-thirds or three-fourths of their baseball salaries, earning enough in winter to make up the balance of the cost of living.

A hustling ball player—one of the kind who go into the big leagues and fight to make $40,000 or $50,000 during his career even if he never participates in any world's series and never becomes a star. McAlleer's belief that he can save $30,000 is based upon the fact that a player's necessary expenses are slight in the playing season, and he ought to be able to make enough during the six months' layoff to allow him to save two-thirds or three-fourths of his baseball season salary.

LAWN TENNIS ASSOCIATION
Changes in Rules Defining "Amateurs" to Be Considered at 32d Annual Meeting in New York Today

NEW YORK, Feb. 13.—Changes in the rules defining "amateurs" are the most important matters to be considered at the 32d annual meeting of the United States National Lawn Tennis association here today. Opposition has developed to some of the proposed amendments on the ground that they are too drastic and hostile to the development of the game.

The association will choose officers for the ensuing year, award the national championships for 1913 and act on the reports of the ranking committee and of the special committee on international competition authorized at the last annual meeting.

One of the proposed rules which promises to cause the most discussion would bar amateurs from accepting money, transportation, board or lodging from any hotel, club or similar organization in connection with which a tennis tournament is being held; and another would regulate the connection of amateurs with the sale of tennis goods.

"WILDCAT" FERNS SAYS HE PUT WELT IN WELTERWEIGHT

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Feb. 13.—"Wildcat" Ferns of this city evidently has a good grip on the welterweight boxing championship, for he lost only one bout last year and has won several this season. Nothing would please Ferns better than to engage in a tournament to determine who is the champion of the welterweight division. He feels confident he can defeat all the fighters in the 142 pound class. Ferns thinks he has demonstrated his ability and is eager to land the championship. The boxing world does not recognize him as the leader under present conditions, and therefore he wants to acquire a legitimate hold on the title through ever seen. Terry didn't know how to play easy with a partner, and he went after Nelson from the top of the belt. But Bat never flinched. He took a number of McGovern's wallopings in good fashion and also returned some of his own brand. No one then thought that Nelson would become a champion. He was just like any number of lads hanging around Chicago. He was willing and eager to fight for almost anything. A square meal would have tempted him at times."

UNCLE JOE CANNON WILL BE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—Uncle Joe Cannon, former speaker of the house, will be the guest of honor at a monster dinner to be given about Feb. 15 by republican and democratic members. A committee of twenty, composed of ten democrats and ten republicans, was named to make the arrangements. Representative Humphreys of Mississippi, a democrat, probably will be toastmaster.

TO BUILD UP THE TEAM MCLOSKEY IS A RUSHER LOWELL BOWLERS WON
Tinker Follows Chance's Policy Good Reputation tet on Y.M.C.A. Alleys

Manager Joe Tinker of the Cincinnati Reds is following Frank Chance's policy of building up a team. This can be seen by the way he is trying to get two or three veteran players—players who, many believe, have seen their best days. Tinker got Fletcher "Mince"

JOE TINKER

Brown. He also would like to have Tommy Leach and Johnny Kling. Joe believes that if he can land the two last mentioned he will have the Reds in the thick of battle all the time. One was Jimmy Sheekard, who is still with the Cubs; the other Harry Steinfield. Chance needed an outfield, and although Sheekard at that time was not having any good luck for Brooklyn, Chance gave four players for him. For Steinfield the former manager of the Cubs allowed two men to get away, one being Hans Lobert, who had just begun to show his ability. When these two deals were completed Chance placed Sheekard in left field, a position he had always played, and Steiny on third.

Harold Jarvis, the Red Sox recruit, takes long chances playing hockey at Franklin Field. The rules of the club matches out there are followed more in the breach than in the observance, and a toss over the boards followed by a broken or even twisted limb might put this young player out of business for the season.

Natty Natrass, the former International League player, who was in Syracuse in the New York state, is said to be slated for a berth as manager in the Canadian league.

Owen Wilson, better known as "Chief," the Pirates' champion fence buster, has been traded to the Boston Red Sox. Wilson was a star in the Texas League, and was a very good first baseman. He was a very good left-handed pitcher to boot in the course of the season that McAlleer preferred to have at least one right-handed pitcher batsman in his outfit.

It does not look as if the Boston club would come to terms quickly with Duff Lewis and Bill Carrigan. Neither of these men has been offered a contract for the coming season. It is said that there are no catchers there that begin to have the class of Mike Kelly and "Buck" Ewing and have been none since those famous stars quit the game. That is the one department in which the game has not advanced, he says. Why Kelly and Ewing not come back? "They were the best of the day," exclaimed the Red Sox chief the other day, "but they were constantly pulling off something new and something better than the old game. The greatest creative ball players. Each was a baseball genius and such men have been few and far between in the game. Bruce is a catcher, is one of the greatest assets of a baseball club, and 'Kel' and 'Buck' were able to both think and do things that no one else could do if you were to run the greatest players the game has produced you could not keep their names out of the list."

Larry Reynolds, a former West Point catcher, who caught pitchers Ryan and Dwyer, has been signed to play with Pittsburgh. Felix Morales of New Brunswick, N. J., has sent his contract for a tryout as shortstop. Manager Zetter will have a big squad of players from possibly 25 men reporting for positions at Spring practice.

President Ben Johnson has signed another California umpire in George Hildebrand, who gave satisfaction in the Pacific coast last season. Eugene McGreevy, also a coast umpire, was signed by Johnson last fall. "Bull" Ferrine, who was on the American league staff at last year's season, was picked up by Dan at the Golden Gate, too.

Joe Thomas and Bink McCloskey are both anxious to win tomorrow night's match, as the victor will challenge for the welterweight championship. The match is expected to be a very close one. Thomas has already opened negotiations for a match with the winner of the Bill McKinnon-Jack Dillon match and he has practically been assured of a meeting with K. O. Brennan, the Buffalo middleweight.

McCloskey tried to secure a meeting with Billy Ranko and Klaus while at Paris, but both side-stepped the issue with the Quaker fighter. In the event of his defeating Thomas, as he asserts, he will be in a position to score the win, McCloskey will look for a chance with Klaus and Papke also. Whether Bink will be able to offset the cleverness of the Lowell boxer, is a question. McCloskey is a rusher and delights in mixing it with his opponents. Joe Thomas is considered at his best boxing the rusher, so the members are anxious of a great bout.

The semi-final will be one of the fastest of the season, as the principals, Doyle and Corrigan are both finished boxers and capable of stepping at a lively pace. The two men are well trained. Gardner Brooks will appear against Young Crow in one of the prelims and Young Morgan and Young Daly will furnish the other.

DIAMOND NOTES

Al Mattara, formerly of the Boston Nationals, who was sold by President John M. Ward early last spring to Montreal of the International league, will probably be back in the country and in the National league before the season opens. It is well known that President Murphy of the Chicago Cubs wants him and has offered four players for him, the players to be named and delivered on March 1. But Murphy hasn't a mortgage on Mattara yet, for Mattara has been in the hands of St. Louis club, has made President S. A. Litchenberg of the Montreal club a very handsome offer.

Mattara won twenty-seven games and lost ten while with Montreal, a mediocre record, but he was the best left-handed pitcher in the National league in 1910, but critics declare that he was a great pitcher. Mattara, used Mattara too much, working him in fifty-two games, and thus tiring his arm out.

Wilber Robinson, the portly developer of star pitchers for the Giants, has been traded to the Boston Red Sox. Having brought forth Babe Marquard and Jeff Tesreau, "Robbie" feels no qualms of conscience at presenting himself to the paymaster once in so often.

Harold Jarvis, the Red Sox recruit, takes long chances playing hockey at Franklin Field. The rules of the club matches out there are followed more in the breach than in the observance, and a toss over the boards followed by a broken or even twisted limb might put this young player out of business for the season.

Natty Natrass, the former International League player, who was in Syracuse in the New York state, is said to be slated for a berth as manager in the Canadian league.

Owen Wilson, better known as "Chief," the Pirates' champion fence buster, has been traded to the Boston Red Sox. Wilson was a star in the Texas League, and was a very good first baseman. He was a very good left-handed pitcher to boot in the course of the season that McAlleer preferred to have at least one right-handed pitcher batsman in his outfit.

It does not look as if the Boston club would come to terms quickly with Duff Lewis and Bill Carrigan. Neither of these men has been offered a contract for the coming season. It is said that there are no catchers there that begin to have the class of Mike Kelly and "Buck" Ewing and have been none since those famous stars quit the game. That is the one department in which the game has not advanced, he says. Why Kelly and Ewing not come back? "They were the best of the day," exclaimed the Red Sox chief the other day, "but they were constantly pulling off something new and something better than the old game. The greatest creative ball players. Each was a baseball genius and such men have been few and far between in the game. Bruce is a catcher, is one of the greatest assets of a baseball club, and 'Kel' and 'Buck' were able to both think and do things that no one else could do if you were to run the greatest players the game has produced you could not keep their names out of the list."

Larry Reynolds, a former West Point catcher, who caught pitchers Ryan and Dwyer, has been signed to play with Pittsburgh. Felix Morales of New Brunswick, N. J., has sent his contract for a tryout as shortstop. Manager Zetter will have a big squad of players from possibly 25 men reporting for positions at Spring practice.

President Ben Johnson has signed another California umpire in George Hildebrand, who gave satisfaction in the Pacific coast last season. Eugene McGreevy, also a coast umpire, was signed by Johnson last fall. "Bull" Ferrine, who was on the American league staff at last year's season, was picked up by Dan at the Golden Gate, too.

HIGHLAND CLUB PARTY

Bowling Contest Interested the Members

The Highland club held a very enjoyable star party last evening with a bowling tournament as the feature. All the older members were present as well as the younger element in the club and the evening proved a very pleasant one for all who attended.

The main sport of the evening came in the matched game between "Tom" Lawson and Wallace Drew. These two professional rollers bowled a very close game which was greatly appreciated by all the spectators. "Tom" finally won out by a garrison finish in the last two boxes, but the score was so close that another match will be arranged shortly between these two exponents of the candle-pin game.

Prizes were awarded in both the candle pin and ten pin contests. Both were entered by the majority of the members and excitement ran high, especially toward the end of the matches. A. G. McCurdy was the winner of the candle pin roll and received a handsome watch chain as a memento of his prowess. Frederick G. Woodworth was second in this event and was presented with a pair of cuff links.

The entertainment committee had good reason to feel proud of a successful evening last night and a hearty request was presented by all present for another bowling tournament.

Lowell Art Association

The lecture "On Saddlebags in the Yellowstone," to be given by Prof. George B. Shattuck in Colonial hall on Wednesday night of next week will not be free to members of the Lowell Art association, as many of the lectures are, but on the other hand a 25 cent ticket, if purchased in advance, will entitle members to a reserved seat. There should be a wide interest in this lecture both for its unique illustrations, and because Prof. Shattuck has made several remarkable geological journeys through the Yellowstone and tells an unusual story of what he has seen.

OUGHT TO SAVE MONEY

Ball Players Should Have

"Rainy Day" Fund

"A baseball player ought to be at his best between 30 and 35," said James T. McAlleer, "and he ought to have $30,000 while in baseball."

The author of the aforesaid ought to be some authority on the subject, because he was playing the game about that age. Moreover, being chief moneymaker of the champions of the world, his observations concerning diamond athletes ought to carry weight.

If McAlleer's remark is actually true, then baseball is unquestionably the best of all outdoor sports so far as the players thereof are concerned. In no other branch of athletics can a man, as a rule, stand the strain after, say, 27 or 28, and nearly all of them begin to go back at about 30. And how many men have saved $30,000 at the age of 35?

"Of course, a man isn't so fast after 30 as he was before," added the Sox president, "but he has learned to think by that time, and he should be more valuable to his club after 30 than before, always provided he has taken care of himself."

McAlleer has started a winter dispute already. Let's see what happens now that he has opened a little argument for the fans.

"Is a baseball player at his best between 30 and 35?"

The Sox president made this remark during a conversation in which he was asked how much he thought a big league baseball player ought to save during his career on the diamond. McAlleer put the figure at some $30,000. The average life of a ball player who takes care of himself in the big leagues is not much more than 10 years. Most of them enter about 22 or thereabouts.

STUDENT DIES UNDER ICE

Gives Life in Lake for Hub Friend

PRINCETON, N. J., Feb. 12.—Vincent O'Brien of 219 East Woodlawn avenue, Germantown, Penn., a student at St. Vincent's parochial school, near Princeton, was drowned in Carnegie lake before rescuers could reach him while he was making an effort to save the life of a companion with whom he was skating.

Thomas F. Ryan of Boston, the companion he tried to save, succeeded in reaching shallow water and was rescued by ice cutters.

The accident occurred on the northern side of the lake. Ryan left his companion and ventured on the thin ice at the edge of the lake. He fell in, but succeeded in getting a footing and keeping himself above water.

Hearing his cries for help, Vincent O'Brien eked to him, Ryan who was in the water called to him not to dive in, but he disregarded the warning, threw off his skates and jumped in the water, but was drawn under the ice and was not seen again.

His body was not recovered.

Ryan is in a serious condition from exposure.

BOARD OF TRADE ACTIVE

Says That Alderman Exceeded Appropriation

PROMINENT RAILROAD MAN TO ADDRESS BOARD

Report of the Highway Committee on Connecting Bridge Street With the Boulevard in Draft

The board of directors of the Lowell board of trade held its regular monthly meeting yesterday and transacted considerable business. Several reports were heard and the report that one of the members of the municipal council had violated the city charter by spending more than his appropriation, was brought to the attention of the board. It was also announced that on Feb. 24 a meeting of the board will be held at Associate highway engineer, T. E. Byrnes, vice president of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad.

The meeting was called to order by President George M. Harrigan shortly after 5 o'clock and six new members were admitted into the organization, namely: Charles E. Cook, Robert E. Crowley, Henry A. Ward, Thomas E. Kay, Hon. Henry Draper and William Rigby.

The following resolutions relative to the proposed one-cent postage, which is at present under discussion in congress, was read by Secretary John H. Murphy:

Whereas, the annual reports of the postmaster general for fiscal years ending June 30, 1910 and 1911, show that first class (letter) mail, produced in the first of these years a profit of over $5,000,000, and in the second (the current year), a profit of more than $10,000,000, which sums are entirely absorbed by the losses incurred in handling other classes of mail at less than cost of service.

Therefore, he it resolved by the Lowell board of trade, that all users of letter postage should be accorded, at once, a one-cent rate for the ordinary letter, and we, therefore, ask members of congress from this state to support, respectively, senate bill No. 7782 introduced by Senator Theodore E. Burton of Ohio, and house bill No. 27,567, a duplicate thereof, introduced by John W. C. of March of Massachusetts for 1-cent letter postage and we further ask that they use their efforts to secure this reduction with as little delay as possible and certainly during the present session of congress.

A local resident wrote to the board, complaining about the condition of the electric cars used in Lowell, especially on the Fisher street and Broadway lines, and expressed the belief that the railroad company will be asked by the board of trade to provide better cars for the city. The letter was read to the meeting and referred to the transportation committee.

It was voted to make the members of the executive committee delegates to the community council. Robert E. Harrigan, chairman of the committee on highways, submitted the following report:

In accordance with the vote of the directors, the committee on highways reports that it has organized the community council. This is composed of delegates from Lowell, Dracut, Tewksbury, Chelmsford, Billerica, Westford, Tyngsboro and Dunstable. The delegates from the towns were invited to a supper which was served in the Lowell board of trade, rooms, at which time details of organization and the purposes of the council were discussed. The visitors agreed unanimously that the plan was a good one and that it was possible, with such an organization, to do much to improve the quality of highways in this vicinity, as well as take up other matters, such as trolley express, public market, etc. It is expected that the community council will devote its chief attention, for the present, to the matter of good roads, but the council made it apparent that it would work to advance the project of the Lowell board of trade where such projects were of interest to the community.

Your committee also held a conference concerning the connecting of Bridge street with the new river boulevard and a petition has been filed at city hall, asking that a survey be made along the river bank parallel to First street, to find out the probable cost of building a road from the corner of Read and First streets, along the land of the Locks and Canals to the city line, where it would join the new boulevard now being built by the state.

The committee also recommends that the board petition the city government to establish Nichols and Smith streets as one-way streets and that the large open area in the rear of the police station be made available as a parking space for automobiles which now block the passage as such streets as Middle street. These two recommendations seem to your committee highly desirable for the benefit of the city's traffic.

Respectfully submitted,

Highway Committee,

R. F. Marden, chairman.

The waterways committee submitted the following report:

At a meeting attended by the following members: Charles H. McInnis, Edward B. Pierce, Captain White, Jas. McManis, Percy Gilbert, A. C. Knight, Edward Lyle, it was unanimously voted that the committee should recommend to the directors the endorsement of the report of the Merrimack valley waterway board, known as house bill No. 1924.

Hon. James E. O'Donnell, Edward B. Pierce, Capt. W. E. White and John H. Murphy were appointed a committee to represent the board at a conference to be held in Boston Feb. 15, 1913, under the auspices of the Boston chamber of commerce, for the consideration of the developments of the harbors and inland waterways of Massachusetts.

It was announced by the educational committee that the essay contest among the school children of the city, which proved so interesting last year, is to be taken up again this year, the subject to be "My View of the Civil War." Suitable prizes will be awarded the winners.

The proposed highway from Moody street to First street, planned by Frank Ricard, a member of the board, came for discussion, and inasmuch as it was known to be opposed by some business men of the city, it was thought best to continue action on it until a more general discussion could be had.

Former President Harvey B. Greene called the attention of the board to a report that a certain commissioner had violated the city charter by spending more than his appropriation, and he said this action should formally be called to the attention of the municipal council and something done. It was voted to lay the matter on the table for the present.

Secretary Murphy announced that the board will hold a public meeting at Associate hall, Feb. 24, when Mr. Byrnes will be the speaker.

Aprons for the Belle

The little bride who is going to take care of her new home with her own hands will appreciate as a gift a top to her kitchen and workday apron, which will cover her frock entirely. Such an apron should be made of the front of the frock and may be made with large armholes finished with piping or have loose sleeves attached at the wrists with buttoned cuffs, as preferred.

The apron especially designed for wear during hours devoted to needlework is fashioned so that the lower part of the apron draws up like a bag, holding one's work conveniently and safely until one is ready to sit down to one's sewing again.

A practical model is of flowered pompadour silk, the bag being made by turning up the lower edge of the apron and running a cord along the top of this turned up piece. Another casing is put in the apron itself at the same height from the bottom, and ribbons draw up the casing so that the bag is to be turned into an apron. Two small pockets of the silk add to the prettiness of the apron above the needlework receptacle and the top of the apron is drawn up by ribbon run through another casing.

KILLED 'SISTER-IN-LAW' AND SELF

Man Found Lifeless Body of Wife in Bed—Body of His Brother Found Upstairs

MAINTREE, Feb. 12.—When George Hobart, the night railroad baggage master, returned home from work this morning he found the lifeless body of his wife in her bed. A bullet hole in the left eye told the manner of death. The body, sleeping quietly, was that of his 32-year-old daughter Muriel. Hastily aroused, the child could explain only that some time during the night she was awakened "by a bang and a flash," then the sleepy eyes closed again.

On the second floor of the house were rooms occupied by Myron Hobart, a brother, and it was to this man that the thoughts of the frantic husband turned. Rushing up the stairs, he found the body of Myron, stretched out on the floor. Near the body was a revolver. Examination showed that the man had been shot in the mouth. The police theory is that Myron killed his sister-in-law and then committed suicide. Gossip of the neighborhood seemed to support this explanation of the tragedy and at the same time re-

TO CLOSE THE SCHOOLS

Suffragettes Want No Session March 3

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—Thousands of school children of Washington will swell the crowds which will cheer the suffragettes in the suffragette parade March 3, if the board of education passes favorably a request from the National Suffrage organizations

I Will Stake This Medicine Against Your Time

A FEW DAYS WILL BE SUFFICIENT TO PROVE THAT YOU ARE CURABLE

A few minutes of your time for a few days and I will demonstrate to you, without expense to yourself, that I have a medicine that drives Uric Acid from the system and by so doing cures kidney trouble, bladder trouble, rheumatism, and such things, and the only way I can demonstrate that fact is to go to the expense of compounding the medicine and sending it out free of charge. This I am glad to do for any sufferer who will take the time to write me. Understand, I will not send you a so-called sample, proof or test treatment, nor will I ask you to pay for this gift nor will you be under any obligations.

All I want to know is that you have a disease for which my medicine is indicated, as it is not "cure-all," and I give herewith some of the leading symptoms of kidney, bladder and rheumatic troubles. If you notice one or more of these symptoms you need this medicine, and I will be glad to send you some of it if you will write me the numbers of the symptoms that trouble you, and your name and address. My address is Dr. Frank Lynott, 529 Deagan Building, Chicago, Ill. You may write me nothing, you may give your name, and your name and address, but in order to do this I must know that you need my medicine. Write me the numbers of the symptoms that trouble you, and your name, and I will promptly carry out my promises. Show an inclination to be cured and you will be.

You will agree when you have used it that it dissolves and drives out uric acid poison. It tones the kidneys, that they work in harmony with the bladder. It strengthens the bladder, so that frequent desire to urinate, and other urinary disorders are banished. It stops rheumatic aches and pains immediately. It dissolves uric acid crystals so that back and muscles no longer ache and twisted joints quickly straighten out. It reconstructs the blood and nerves so that you soon feel healthier and more vigorous, sleep better and eat better, and have energy throughout the day. It does all this, and yet contains nothing injurious and is absolutely vouched for according to law.

Sufferers from these dreadful and dangerous diseases can surely afford to spend a few minutes each day for a few days to demonstrate to their own satisfaction if they are curable, especially when you consider no expense is that the schools be closed on that day. Capt. James Oster, president of the board declared himself in favor of granting the petition. While they were congratulating themselves on the evidently favorable attitude of the board the suffragette leaders heard with some dismay that the national society opposed to equal suffrage had leased a downtown theatre for Feb. 28 in which to hold a monster mass meeting to protest against the demand for the ballot. It is announced that men and women in both social and political life will be among the speakers.

The anti-suffragists, fearing that some of the adherents to the cause might adopt the militant methods of their English sisters, today asked that extra police be appointed to attend the meeting and guard the speakers.

DR. FRANK LYNOTT

Who will send medicine to anyone free of charge

I will willingly give you my time and my medicine. All any afflicted person wants to know is if a certain thing will cure him or her, and here is an opportunity to find out without any obligation or expense. I have lost of time. THESE FEW DAYS may be the turning point in your life. All who are interested enough, to write me for the free medicine will also receive a copy of my large illustrated medical book which describes kidney diseases thoroughly. It is the latest book of the kind ever written, for free distribution, and a new edition is just being printed. I will also write you the numbers of the symptoms that trouble you, and your name, and I will promptly carry out my promises. Show an inclination to be cured and you will be.

These Are the Symptoms:

- 1.—Pain in the back.
- 2.—Too frequent desire to urinate.
- 3.—Burning or obstruction of urine.
- 4.—Pain or soreness in the bladder.
- 5.—Pain or soreness in the stomach.

DIRECTOR OF AGRICULTURAL STATION AT HARFER, PALESTINE, TELLS AMERICAN FARMERS OF DEVELOPMENT

SHEPHERD OF PALESTINE

What, Palestine, the land whose development caused thousands of years ago, and which has been under the hand of the unprogressive Moslem for 15 centuries, teach the United States something about agriculture? Somewhat, doesn't it? But it is not the fact, just the same, and the United States department of agriculture testifies to this fact.

From Palestine came lately to the United States a man, to tell the American farmers what he had learned in the Holy Land, that would be beneficial to them. This man, Aaron Aaronsohn, is a member of the agricultural station at Harfer, Palestine, established by wealthy American Jews.

In the early times Palestine was fertile as well as holy, justifying the promise of the Lord that the Israelites would exchange their hard lot in Egypt for an easier one in a land "overflowing with milk and honey." But continuous cropping, soil robbing, throughout the centuries has taken the fertility out of most of the soil of Palestine. Besides, there is insufficient rainfall in most places.

One of the most important results of the three years' work of Mr. Aaronsohn in Palestine has been the discovery of wild wheat. Wheat as it is grown in the civilized countries of the world is not a hardy plant. It requires a soil rich in plant food, with considerable moisture, and in other ways the plant that supplies us with most of the "stuff of life" is not adapted to barren countries. In thinking over the development of the wheat plant Mr. Aaronsohn figured that modern wheat must have come from an original stock of much harder character.

to it as the connecting link between the mountains and the sea. He did not think that the land damage would be very great. Two little men, he said, had been spent in the Merrimack river valley for state highways and thought the way was now open to do something along this line.

Congressman Rogers
Congressman John Jacob Rogers said it was quite natural that Lowell should look with favor upon such a road as is proposed in the petition.

"In the first place," said Mr. Rogers, "I imagine the state would prefer to construct the roads where the country and scenery is beautiful rather than to construct them, for purely commercial purposes. Pawtucketville would both be served by such a boulevard as is proposed and in these two sections, live about 20 per cent. of the entire population of the city."

Mr. Rogers referred to the park area of the city taking his figures from the annual report of the park commission, and said that only a small fraction of the area of our parks lies to the north of the Merrimack. The people in the suburbs are going to demand, and rightly so, that they be given more parks, for the percentage of park area now allowed them is altogether too small. This proposed boulevard or state road would open up, in a way congested sections of the city. This boulevard will at no point along its entire length be more than a few feet from the beautiful Merrimack. There can be no doubt that for a state activity a boulevard along a river, that adds beauty to the scene is very desirable.

He pointed out that none of the buildings along the line to be traversed by the proposed boulevard were of any great value and he looked upon the opportunity as a most excellent one.

"This is an opportunity that we should take advantage of now," he said. "It is the only missing stretch between Newburyport and the White Mountains and it is a Merrimack valley proposition, not entirely or especially a Lowell proposition."

House Chairman Speaks
Rep. Collins said that the Massachusetts state highway commission

Per order,
Board of Selectmen of Chelmsford

tunity to explain, the expenditure of the $12,000 in 1911, and was recognized. Mr. Greene said that most of the money was expended in improving Shedd park and the playgrounds.

Commissioner Cummings
Commissioner Lawrence Cummings said he was in favor of the proposed boulevard. "We are not in a very good financial condition," said Mr. Cummings. "We are trying to pull the city of Lowell out of a hole for which former governments were responsible, and governments to succeed us will be in a position to appropriate more money for parks and playgrounds. We are trying to make it possible. We are simply asking a fair share of the money that is being expended by the commonwealth."

One of the members speaking to Mr. Cummings said that the Massachusetts state highway commission is adverse to building state highways within city limits.

He said that a bill, emanating from a city of the commonwealth, to stop the construction of state highways in cities, was before the legislature last year.

Senator Draper's Views
Senator Henry J. Draper spoke in favor of the proposed boulevard. He said he had voted for the Lowell boulevard in 1899 and he hoped to vote this year for its continuation.

James J. Gallagher
James J. Gallagher said he thought that the benefit accruing to the state would be greater than the benefit accruing to the city of Lowell. He looked upon it as a good business proposition for the state.

He thought the job could be done now at a minimum expense and he believed it would be a good proposition to put through. He did not believe in the city paying the land damage.

Rep. Collins said that state roads had to be built in small towns that were long on roads and short on cash. "Mayor Fitzgerald," he said, "comes before the state highway commission every year asking for money for state roads and less than 2 1/2 miles have been built in several years, and that despite the fact that Boston pays about 40 per cent. of the total state tax."

The City Engineer
City Engineer Kearney said he was in favor of the proposition because it would mean the completion of a boulevard. He said if the state boulevard is to mean its most, there must be a connecting link between the two sections which have thus far been constructed. Mr. Kearney said Mr. Mills of the Locks & Canals Co. thought the link could be supplied for about $100,000.

William E. Badger
William E. Badger, engineer for the Locks & Canals Co., was called to answer certain questions relative to that company's land and the price asked, if any. He said that as far as the actual securing of the land for a roadway on that part near the Locks & Canals property is concerned, there would be no land damages. If the state could not give money for all the roadway, then he felt it would be a good start to get part of it done.

Other speakers in favor of the proposition included James MacDonald, who spoke for the horse that has to pull the loads over the roads.

John H. Harrington
Mr. John H. Harrington said he was in favor of the project, but was opposed to the details. "I am not," he said, "that the promoters are asking so much that I am afraid they will get nothing in the end. If the state will build the proposed road in its entirety and let us out for $25,000, then I say we will take it. If the proposition were advanced 'take this or nothing' I would be glad to take the plan advanced."

"I am very much in favor of the boulevard from Bridge street to the Dracut line, which I think would make one of the most beautiful boulevards in New England, but from Bridge street to the Moody street bridge, I seriously doubt the wisdom of building it or asking for it. No engineer would sign his name to a plan which would provide for road without a retaining wall to protect the road from spring freshets which frequently cover a portion of the proposed route to a depth of several feet. If the state is willing to build a retaining wall from Bridge street to the boulevard, let us have it. It's an engineering problem that must be seriously considered."

"That part of the proposed road from Bridge street to Moody street is not going to do us any good. The primary use of this boulevard will be for automobile tourists. Why can't the tourists go down Moody, Merrimack and Bridge streets which frequently cover a portion of the proposed route to a depth of several feet. If the state is willing to build a retaining wall from Bridge street to the boulevard, let us have it. It's an engineering problem that must be seriously considered."

"The tourists who go through Manchester, N. H., use Elm street, which is in the heart of the city and at the expense of Lowell they must go through the best residential business districts, and what about Lowell? If they should pursue the course as mapped out in this proposition they would see the back rather than the front of the city, so to speak. A glimpse of the mills and the factory houses would be a poor advertisement for Lowell. People who ride over a road at the rear of the city's mills would see one of the most magnificent dumps in the state, but little else."

Lowell is a beautiful city, active and energetic when they are free of rural monotony down in Lawrence they come to Lowell to enjoy the activities of a real live city. Let us give them a nice road down the river to attract them still more to Lowell."

Mr. Harrington said that if he were a representative from Lowell and was asked to support the proposition and submitted to the committee he would say he loved the old commonwealth too much to be a party to such a "bunco game, regardless of the fact that he loved Lowell still more."

Sparking of Parks
Mr. Harrington said he was very much in favor of them and he said he never in his life opposed a public improvement. He said Lowell had some of the finest parks in the state and he wished she had more. He said that the proposed state road would relieve congestion in the city, and in reply to this, Mr. Harrington said: "If automobilists who come here want to go through Merrimack square there'll be no congestion there, not while Phil Murphy is on the job."

In conclusion Mr. Harrington said that he would favor cheerfully the proposition even at an expense to the city of $50,000, "and I repeat," he said, "I would take it or take nothing." I would take it at double the price, but I prefer a route through the city rather than one on the outskirts."

A rising vote was then taken and nearly all present stood up.

Lawyer Tierney
Edward J. Tierney, representing the Wyman's Exchange estate, doubted that the statement that no land scheme enters into the proposed boulevard is true.

Mr. Tierney intimated that some of those who had spoken in favor of the proposed boulevard had been in the beautiful parks, Fort Hill park is one of the best in the state, yet it is a rarity to see many people there. Lowell has round, square, triangular and all other shaped parks. If any city in the state wants to get a park, it should write to Lowell for Lowell doesn't support her park.

He said that he had heard that Lucy Larson park was kept in shape last year by papers, to which Mayor O'Donnell rejoined, "That is absolutely false."

Lakeview Avenue Flooded
Mr. Harrington had referred to the flooding of Lakeview avenue by spring freshets and Commissioner Cummings asked when Lakeview avenue had last been flooded. William E. Badger said in the years 1895 and 1896.

Varnum Park Obstacle
Donald A. McKenzie said the proposed boulevard would carry traffic away from the best sections of this city. "It would be impossible to turn the boulevard through Varnum park as outlined, unless permission came from the federal government," he said.

Paul L. Chalfoux
Paul L. Chalfoux, representing business interests, said that to travel over the proposed back road, back of the mills, would mean a bad impression of the city conveyed to tourists.

Mr. Ricard was asked as to the cost of the project. He said he has the hazy idea that it will cost $30,000 a mile for a roadway 50 feet in width. Chairman Johnson said that it had cost $47,000 to resurface two and a half miles of road in his home town.

"Have you seen a topographical survey of the Lakeview avenue levels, as compared with the water level?" asked Mr. Harrington.

Mr. Ricard could not answer. Mr. Harrington said the proposed boulevard would be several inches below the level of Lakeview avenue.

The hearing adjourned at 10:30.
